Loughran Makes Strong Bid; Rial, Pershing Victors

The Westmoreland County Democratic machine pulled its two judicial candidates through a tough primary battle yesterday.

But the son of the machine's big boss, Chief County Detective Arthur B. "Buddy" Turner, went down to defeat in a contest for the clerk of courts nomination.

Judge Edward G. Bauer, seeking a second term, and District Attorney L. Alexander Sculco won the two Democratic nominations for common pleas judge, turning back a strong bid by former assistant D. A. Joseph M. Loughran.

Robert H. Rial and Avra N. Pershing Jr. had no trouble winning the two Republican judicial nominations. Judge Bauer, who made a strong effort to capture a Republican nomination, ran a poor fourth on the GOP ticket.

Turner Big Upset

The big upset of the primary was the defeat of Raymond H. Turner, son of the powerful "Buddy" in the Democratic clerk of courts race. Young Turner, now serving in the office by appointment, was beaten by about 1,300 votes in almost complete unofficial returns. The winner was Howard W. Bricker, a deputy sheriff.

Stephen D. Yoney, of Monessen, had a comfortable margin of about 4,000 votes in the Democratic contest for coroner over P. J. Doyle, of Greensburg. Yoney had organization backing.

Robert L. Kunkle, a present jury commissioner, won the Republican nomination for clerk of courts in easy fashion over Ralph K. Porch.

In a close race for the GOP nomination for coroner, Joseph R. Hunter, of Latrobe, was leading Dr. Paul O. Marsh, of Greensburg, by about 300 votes with 13 of the county's 270 precincts still missing in the unofficial tally.

Mrs. Dora M. Dunn, of Greensburg, was renominated for jury commissioner by the Democrats over three opponents, while Margaret R. Henderson, of New Kensington, received the Republican nomination. Nomination for jury

Tax Cut Unlikely, Ike Says

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower said today he will never agree to a tax cut until the government has a much bigger budget surplus in sight than it has now.

Eisenhower told his news conference that the federal budget is now in what he called a precarious state of balance. He said vehemently that we are not yet at the point where we can even talk about tax reduction.

He said spending in some government departments is running seriously over budget estimates in spite of all the administration can do to hold down expenditures.

He said he will do his best to keep the current fiscal 1957 budget and the budget for fiscal 1958, which ends July 1, in the black. But he said he would never agree to tax reduction when the budget is in such a state.

Criticizes Cuts

Other conference highlights:

—He sharply criticized the $2,586,775,000 cut in defense appropriations voted by the House Appropriations Committee Tuesday. The President said about half of the reduction was nothing but a bookkeeping operation that will not reduce fiscal 1958 spending by one cent. But he warned the other half of the cut will directly affect key defense programs, including aircraft procurement and guided missile development. He said he is very hopeful Congress will restore this part of the cut because national security will suffer if it stands.

—He reported that White House mail, which was running heavily against his budget proposals early this year, has gradually swung around in sentiment and today is very much in favor of his stand against crippling economy cuts. He said he assumes his speeches to the nation such as Tuesday night's broadcast defending his foreign aid proposals may have had something to do with this shift in public sentiment.

—He said he will continue taking his budget case to the nation. As long as he is in a fight, he commented grimly he will never rest until the United States gets what he thinks is necessary for waging peace, protecting the nation and operating the government.

Has Preference

—The President was asked whether he might show "more enthusiasm" in the 1958 congressional campaigns in backing GOP senators and congressmen who have supported his program than those who have fought him. He said he hopes he is never accused of being so namby-pamby that he does not have degrees of enthusiasm between those who stand with him and against him. He said he wants a Republican in Congress because he believes in party responsibility. To that extent, he

Victoria Loser; Beck, Dudas in School Victories

Mayor Hugo J. Parente won Democratic re-nomination for an unprecedented fourth term yesterday, but his City Hall slate was cracked by the defeat of Councilman David R. Victoria.

Parente defeated John R. Stieska, a businessman, by nearly 1,400 votes in a spectacular contest which was the feature of the local primary. The unofficial count for mayor showed:

Parente	4,246
Stieska	2,877

Stieska apparently had won the Republican nomination on write-in votes over Parente, but his margin of 12 in the unofficial return could easily be changed in the official count.

No Republican candidates were running for local offices yesterday, and the resulting write-ins of Democratic candidates produced considerable confusion among the election boards as to how the results should be tabulated.

In the Council contest, incumbent John Molnar led the ticket, and his running mate will be John Harhai, Third Ward alderman and a former local school teacher.

Stephen Sinchak, who ran a sensational advertising campaign aimed at alleged Parente "blunders", ran a close third, only 100 votes behind Harhai. The tally for Council showed:

Molnar	2,960
Harhai	2,596
Sinchak	2,495
Victoria	2,082
Snyder	2,009

City Treasurer John J. Spielman, backed by Parente forces, won renomination by a comfortable margin over Dr. G. L. Trilli. The unofficial results were: Spielman, 3,811; Trilli, 2,689.

Controller James Tucci, another City Hall veteran, came through easily over two opponents. First Ward Alderman Manuel J. Monios and Kenneth McNaughton. The vote was: Tucci, 3,222; Monios, 1,859; McNaughton, 1,122.

Emil T. Beck and Dr. Joseph M. Dudas, an incumbent, were the winners in a seven-man contest for two nominations for school director. The tally showed:

Beck	2,459
Dudas	2,251
Kerekes	1,995
Wotkowski	1,544
Todaro	1,188
Learnard	721
Stima	484

John B. Sucevic won the nomination for alderman in the Third Ward with 739 votes to 459 for John Woods and 428 for James LaCarte. Sucevic is a Pittsburgh Steel Co. employe.

Mayor Parente carried all 15 of the city's voting districts with Stieska making his strongest showing in the First Ward.

Parente today said he considered his victory an endorsement of the "progress" which formed the theme of his campaign.

"We are going to move right ahead with our plans," he told

Write-in Votes Here Cause Much Confusion

Republican nominations for local offices were in a state of high confusion today, and the official count will have to decide the winners in several cases.

No candidates filed for city offices and school director nominations in Monessen, and nearly all the Democratic candidates waged campaigns for write-in votes.

Election boards apparently had not received complete instructions about tabulating write-ins, and the handling of them varied from precinct to precinct.

Two boards — the third and fifth in the First Ward — reported no write-ins whatever although some undoubtedly were cast in both precincts.

Fouled-up Mess'

"It is a fouled-up mess," one election board member said.

In at least one instance, a board added the write-ins on the Republican ticket to the Democratic totals, but this mistake was said to have been corrected before the tally sheet was posted.

A tabulation by The Daily Independent, with the above mentioned two districts missing, showed John R. Stieska leading Mayor Hugo J. Parente for the GOP mayoralty nomination by 136 to 124.

Stieska told The Independent that he could not make up his mind immediately whether to make another campaign against Parente as the Republican nominee if the official tally shows him the winner.

"I will have to consult my supporters and give the matter some consideration," Stieska said.

William C. Snyder apparently won one of the two Republican nominations for council with 98 write-ins. Stephen Sinchak had 67 while John Harhai, John Molnar and David R. Victoria, the other Democratic candidates, had 60 each. Molnar and Harhai were the victors in the Democratic ticket.

Trilli Is Winner

Dr. G. L. Trilli, who lost the Democratic nomination for city treasurer to incumbent John J. Spielman, apparently won the Republican nomination, 95 to 66.

For school director, the leading candidates on the GOP tally were Clifford R. Learnard and Emil T.

Tired Council Opens Bids on Street Blacktop

Monessen City Council, noticeably tired after yesterday's election, this morning in a brief meeting opened two bids on furnishing the City with 20,000 square feet of four-inch blacktop for streets and alleys.

Burrell Construction Co. submitted a bid of $1.58 per square foot and Westmoreland Paving Co. quoted $1.49 per square foot. The bids were ordered tabulated.

In other business, Council heard federal mine inspectors give a report on the procedure it plans to use to control mine fires in the vicinity of Lookout Ave. Malcom Maxim, inspector, said borings should be made in the surface and then a mixture of slag and water poured into the openings to seal off air.

He suggested that slag and water be provided by the City. He said state and federal mine bureaus will provide machinery and engineering data.

Council took the recommendation under consideration and said it hopes to have a decision at the next meeting.

James Pascarella, of 27 Shawnee Ave., submitted a petition requesting the alley between Delaware and Shawnee avenues be filled and improved. The petition, bearing the names of 47 residents in the area, was taken under advisement.

Council passed a resolution calling for one meeting on the second Wednesday of each month during June, July and August.

Primary Tabulations

McCurdy Loses In Council Bid In Monongahela

Harry (Yi) McCurdy, a teacher at Monessen High School, was defeated in his bid to regain the Democratic nomination for Council in yesterday's primary election in Monongahela.

McCurdy ran third in a seven man field. The successful Democratic candidates were William Pellegrini and Charles M. Brady. They will be opposed by Republicans William H. Watson and Louis S. Warren.

An incumbent school director also lost out in the Democratic race; William McGregor. The successful candidates were Michael Smith and Thomas Scurfield. Their Republican opponents will be William H. Watson and Louis S. Warren.

The city controller race will match Democrat Willard A. Cox and Republican Roy A. Bowman.

Sucevic Wins In Third Ward

John B. Sucevic was an easy winner in yesterday's race for alderman of Monessen's Third Ward, piling up a 280-vote majority over his nearest opponent.

Unofficial returns had Sucevic polling 739 votes, John Woods 459 and James LaCarte 428.

The present alderman, John Harhai, yesterday won the Democratic nomination for City Council.

No Republicans sought the Third Ward position.

Sucevic, successful in his first bid for public office, is employed in the safety department of the Monessen plant of Pittsburgh Steel Co.

Venneri Wins Burgess Fight in Belle Vernon

Burgess William Venneri won out in a three-way fight for renomination on the Democratic ticket in Belle Vernon's primary election yesterday.

He beat out Joseph P. Caputo and John Perry, a former burgess.

A close tax collector's battle on the Democratic ticket went to Steven E. Smith over Patsy Cicco. T. Gerald Stanley and J. E. Kuhn had no trouble winning renomination for the school director's post on the Democratic ticket. Kuhn won the write-in vote on the Republican ticket, assuring him of reelection in November while Harry Hackenson, Jr., won the other Republican position.

Lawrence Teano, Albert Dominick, Alex Basits and George Fedarko won the Democratic nominations for council while James R. Hassen, Jr., Harold T. Ringstad, Jr., Kenneth Beazell and Andrew Skruber will oppose them as Republicans in November.

'Independent' Democrat Wins in Rostraver Twp.

Rostraver Twp.'s powerful Democratic machine carried "slated" county candidates to smashing victories in yesterday's primary election, but lost its first local contest in years.

John Indof, running as an "independent Democrat," upset the incumbent candidate, Harry Curran, according to unofficial returns.

Indof polled 1097 votes, compared to 1045 for Curran, to win the Democratic nomination. He scored heavily in the Van Meter, Columbus and Concord precincts to offset Curran's advantage in Pricedale and Webster.

Another "independent" candidate, T. A. Vitale polled a surprising total of 953 votes even though he failed in his bid to unseat the two incumbent school directors Sam Weightman and Peter Backstrom.

While the machine was challenged in local contests, it was a different story for county offices. L. Alexander Sculco and Edward G. Bauer piled up whopping pluralities in the common pleas judge race.

Political observers were watching the township returns since the United Mine Workers had backed Joseph M. Loughran for judge. That endorsement was supposed to cut into the machine vote in Van Meter and Pricedale.

However, the Democratic voters remained loyal to the machine, headed by County Detective Arthur (Buddy) Turner.

All other Turner-backed candidates won easily on the Democratic side.

The Republican race in the township found most candidates unopposed for nomination.

In Van Meter, not a single Republican turned out to vote.

Very sincere thanks to the residents of Monessen for your vote in the primaries and I hope for your continued support in the general election. Stephen Yoney.

Tax Collector, Council Fight In N. Belle Vernon

Voters all but settled the confused councilmanic race in North Belle Vernon during primary balloting yesterday.

Three candidates won nomination on both the Democratic and Republic tickets to practically assure their election.

Voters picked these four candidates from among ten Democratic aspirants: William J. Mascara, Tony Stringhill, Homer Raymond Zucconi and Charles Klisowski.

Zucconi, Kliscwski and Mascara also won the Republican nominations on write-ins. The other GOP candidate in the general election will be James Reed.

Leroy Jones, the current burgess, had no opposition for the Democratic nomination. He also polled every Republican write-in.

The interesting tax collector race found Raymond Dalfonso winning the Democratic nomination and Warren Williams, the GOP nod.

Clifford Breakwell and Michael E. Yencsik had no opposition for the Democratic nomination as school directors. They will be opposed in the general election by Harold Underwood and John W. Werton.

Neither side had candidates on the ballot for Justice of the Peace. Write-in votes, though, gave the Republican nomination to Austin Corwin and the Democratic nomination to John E. Mobley.

In the county races, all "organ-

Ike in Defense of Foreign Aid

Accuses Cutters of 'Gambling'

WASHINGTON (UP) —President Eisenhower charged Tuesday night that those who seek to cut his $3,865,000,000 foreign aid program are "reckless" gamblers with the nation's safety.

In his most aggressive defense to date of his embattled budget, the President told the American people that cuts in what he called his "minimum" foreign aid figure would eventually mean a bigger army, bigger draft calls, longer draft calls, longer draft terms and more billions for defense spending.

Declaring any weakening of foreign aid would "vastly increase" the danger of war that would be paid for with "the lives of our youth," Eisenhower solemnly told budget-cutters:

"The road to this disaster could easily be paved with the good intentions of those blindly striving to save the money that must be spent as the price of peace."

Second Budget Talk

The President's tougher-talking defense of his foreign aid program was carried to the nation by major radio and TV networks. It followed his milder speech a week earlier supporting his overall spending budget for the next fiscal year.

There had been some criticism of the Chief Executive for not taking a firmer stand in last week's speech and his follow-up news conference the next day. High-ranking leaders of his own party in Congress said his previous speech had caused "not a ripple."

Eisenhower had another opportunity to plug his foreign aid program and budget at a news conference later today.

Secretary of State John Foster Dulles was scheduled to appear before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to back up the new aid program and spell out its details.

Some favorable Reaction

First congressional reaction to Eisenhower's new defense of his foreign aid program contained both in a message to Congress earlier Tuesday and his TV speech Tuesday night, showed some support for his stand but no clear sign he has cooled the budget-cutting fever.

Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.), chairman of the Senate GOP Policy Committee who has attacked "global" spending, said he opposed "any effort to sabotage or cripple foreign aid" but thought the President's program could be cut another 400 million dollars. Others called for cuts up to one billion dollars.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson (Tex.) said the question of what constitutes a "minimum figure" can be determined "only after a searching scrutiny" of Eisenhower's proposals.

Sen. Theodore Francis Green (D-R I.), chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said "if they can cut one-half billion dollars just like that, perhaps we'll start where they left off." This referred to the President's $535,000,000 cut in his own foreign aid request, revealed in his message Tuesday although forecast earlier.

Parente

The Daily Independent, apparently referring to redevelopment and other aspects of the city's master plan, which is now in the making.

Stieska was obviously stunned by his defeat.

"I'm shocked," he said this morning. "I just don't know what could have happened."

Then the defeated candidate offered his congratulations to the Mayor:

"I wish him every success," Stieska said.

Stieska, who had run unsuccessfully for city council on two previous occasions, had been confident of beating Parente by a "landslide" right up until the polls closed.

On the other hand, the Mayor had predicted early in the campaign that Stieska would get no more than the "usual protest vote" of between 2,500 and 3,000. And that was exactly the way it turned out.

City Hall sources were still trying today to figure out what happened to Victoria. Some were inclined to think that he was the victim of the voting machines, which were used in a primary for the first time here yesterday.

The names of Victoria and Snyder both appeared on the second line of the machines, and it was theorized that the voters just didn't bother or were afraid to go down that far. The totals for both Victoria and Snyder were well behind the rest of the field of five candidates.

commissioner is tantamount to election since each party designates one commissioner.

With 257 precincts reported, the unofficial count in the Democratic judgeship contest showed:

Bauer	24,546
Sculco	22,920
Loughran	20,366
McWherter	13,016
Rial	7,492
Pershing	7,058

On the Republican ticket, the judicial candidates ran as follows:

Rial	13,787
Pershing	13,660
Loughran	7,247
Bauer	6,131
McWherter	4,574
Sculco	2,274

Rial and Pershing are registered Republicans while the other four candidates are registered Democrats.

Bricker polled 24,646 in the 257 precincts which had been reported up to noon today to 23,391 for Raymond Turner. It was considered impossible for Turner to close the gap in the missing precincts.

Bricker is a veteran courthouse official, having served as a deputy to several sheriffs, both Republican and Democratic. His victory was a consolation prize for his present boss, Sheriff Howard Bud Thomas, who had strongly backed Loughran for judge.

Fewer than 50,000 of the county's 104,000 Democrats went to the polls yesterday. About 23,000 Republicans out of 53,000 voted.

Motorist Hurt In Accident On Route 51

A Pittsburgh motorist was slightly injured today in a traffic accident on Route 51 near Sweeney's Restaurant, according to State Police.

John M. Flecker, 32, of Pittsburgh, was treated for facial cuts at Charleroi-Monessen Hospital and released.

According to police, Flecker's car was sideswiped by a truck operated by John Nicholas Gallagan Jr., 20, of Knoxville, Tenn.

Gallagan told police he was travelling north on Route 51 and mistook the Route 71 spur for the highway. When he swerved back onto 51, the bed of his truck struck the Flecker car.

Police estimated damages at about $1100. The accident occurred at 9:15 a. m.

Aged Man Arrested As Theft Suspect

John Kocan, 86, of R. D. 1, Perryopolis, is lodged in Monessen City jail today pondering over the adage, "Never bite the hand that feeds you".

Yesterday Kocan who was listed as a vagrant on police dockets was given a free meal at the Kozy Korner Restaurant at Second St. and Schoonmaker Ave. After finishing his meal and while the waitress wasn't looking, he ambled out with a can containing about $9 in sales tax collections.

Police were notified and arrested Kocan a few blocks away.

West Newton Race For Burgess Lively

A lively race for the Democratic burgess nomination featured primary balloting in West Newton yesterday.

Paul Suchko beat out James J. Welsch by one vote, if unofficial tabulations are correct.

According to the early returns Suchko polled 332 votes to 331 for Welsch.

On the Republican side, Robert Umbarger had no trouble winning the nomination. He received 357 votes.

Umbarger also showed surprising strength in the Democratic contest, receiving 205 write-ins.

"Regular" county candidates won decisively in all races with the exception of clerk of courts on the Democratic ballot. Howard M. Bricker upset Raymond H. Turner, 435 to 415.

Jane Sykes Farrell, Democrat, and Sara Ross, Republican, won respective nominations for tax collector.

J. Frank Lasch practically assured a school director post by winning both nominations. He will be joined on the Republican ballot by Earl Albig, Jr., while his Democratic running mate will be Joseph Schifino.

In the council races, John Lowanse won both nominations in the second ward.

Edgar Rouse and Victor Leap won the Democratic nominations in the first and third wards. Their Republican opponents will be Warren Cumps and Jane Abbott.

Beck although all the other candidates also received some votes. Beck and Dr. Joseph Duda were the successful candidates on the Democratic ticket.

In the Third Ward aldermanic contest, the write-in count showed 7 for John Woods 6 for John B. Sucevic, who was the Democratic winner, and 3 for James LaCarte.

The official count is scheduled to start in the Westmoreland County courthouse in Greensburg at 1 p. m. Friday under the supervision of the county commissioners acting in their capacity as the county election board.

After the official count has been certified, candidates who have been nominated by write-in votes must so signify if they wish to decline the nomination.

'River Pirates' Caught by Posse

MURPHYSBORO, Ill. (UP)—Two "river pirates" who robbed a small town bank of $40,000 eluded the president of another bank in a waterborne chase Tuesday only to be captured by a river-bank posse.

They were nailed for the robbery today after other pursuit along the Mississippi and Ohio rivers...

Summers Beats Jerry Weiss in Washington Twp.

Road Supervisor Jerry Weiss lost out in his attempt to retain his office in yesterday's Democratic primary election in Washington Twp.

He was defeated by Charles Summers by 57 votes in a hotly contested election. Summers polled 519 votes to Weiss' 462. George Wenick, a newcomer to the Washington Twp. political scene pulled a surprisingly good 270 votes.

All other Democratic incumbents won reelection. Guy Winn for tax collector and Stanley E. Koslasky and John Kasuda, school directors.

Another battle for the road supervisor's post could occur in November's general election, if Weiss won the write-in vote on the Republican ticket.

He was leading Summers 14 to 11 with Arnold City not reporting. However, informed political leaders see little likelihood for Weiss to upset Summers in November since nomination on the Democratic ticket in Washington Twp. is tantamount to election.

Winn, Koslasky and Kasuda won nominations on both tickets as did Harry S. Muckle, Sr., Democrat, for auditor and Michael J. Mitchell, Democrat, for assessor.

Capt. Alan Villiers, in his radio report, said his latest position was 21 degrees 22 minutes north, 44 degrees 50 minutes west.

Big Surprise In Donora Tax Collector Race

Albert P. Delsandro won the Democratic nomination for burgess in Donora, but George Kovalcik — an assistant football coach at Donora High — provided the big surprise when he finished first in the tax collector race during yesterday's primary voting.

There was only one name on the entire Republican ballot in the Democratic stronghold.

Kovalcik defeated August Z. Chambon, the long-time burgess who gave up that job to seek the tax collector's post. Kovalcik, one of Donora's High's all-time football greats, polled 1170 votes to 906 for Chambon.

The result was considered a stunning upset.

Delsandro was high in a four-way race for burgess. He polled 1473 votes. Other candidates included John Marasovich with 1011; Ed Tomaseski with 795 and J. R. Brooks, with 188.

Marasovich won the Republican nomination on write-ins.

Another former football star, Arnold Galiffa won both the Democratic and Republican nominations for council. So did Joseph Mouyard. Other successful Democratic candidates were Albert Pipik and John Duda, Jr.

Theodore Hickman and John Kosh won the Democratic school director nominations, ousting incumbent Paul Johnson. Robert Cowie was unopposed on the Republican side. His was the only name on the GOP ticket.

Tornadoes Take 18 More Lives In Missouri Area

FREMONT, Mo. (UP) — The death toll rose to at least 18 today in a swarm of tornadoes that swept through eastern Missouri and virtually destroyed the little town of Fremont Tuesday night.

Latest count showed nine dead at Desloge, eight at Fremont and one at Van Buren.

The death-dealing weather continued to threaten the area, with high winds reported at Dexter in southeast Missouri where trees were uprooted and cars demolished early today.

The Fremond tornado raced down a hollow along U.S. 60, tearing apart the community built along both sides of the highway. Only three buildings were left standing, a church, the post office and one store.

Every home in the town of 207 population was levelled to the foundation. One witness said that outside of the three buildings spared by the twister, 'nothing over three feet high was left standing.

The funnel roared eastward, dipping to a cluster of five homes and a motel. Witnesses said the motel collapsed into rubble, leaving nothing but the concrete block foundation.

The owner, James L. Wilkins, and his family took refuge in a concrete pump house. The five homes were damaged and three persons of one family seriously injured.

Missed Court House

The twister then smashed into nearby Van Buren and slammed into the town square before disappearing. The twister missed a court house building in the square, but destroyed a number of business places and homes.

Refugees from the Fremont storm, all of them homeless, were taken to Winona, 11 miles away, where they were housed in temporary quarters with the help of the Red Cross.

At Desloge, 34 injured persons were hospitalized at nearby Bonne Terre, nine of them in critical condition. Dozens more were injured who did not require hospitalization.

Fifty pints of blood plasma were relayed by highway patrol units to the injured at the Bonne Terre Hospital, three miles north of Desloge.

Authorities said two of the dead in the Desloge twister were killed in the city itself and three died in a demolished farm house southeast of the city.

Authorities described property damage at Desloge as "tremendous." Thirty homes were destroyed and much of the business district was reduced to twisted debris.

Four Red Cross station wagons from St. Louis brought cots, blankets and food to the city of about 2,000 population.

Telephone communications were knocked out in the stricken area, and the state highway patrol was hampered by atmospheric conditions that garbled its radio network.

Still Other Twisters

Other twisters hit Monticello and Belgrade, damaging nine more homes.

The Desloge tornado also ripped into the little town of Cantwell, just south of Desloge. Mrs. James F. Collins, whose husband is manager of radio station KFMO at nearby Flat River, told United Press her home was destroyed.

Mrs. Collins said she and her husband escaped by taking refuge in the basement.

Two truck loads of bedding and two trucks of food were rushed from West Plains to Winona to feed the evacuated Fremont residents. The Red Cross also obtained 100 cots and blankets from the Army base at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., for the refugees.

DIG FOR TORNADO VICTIMS IN KANSAS CITY — Volunteer Rescue workers dug apart the ruins in Ruskin Heights, Kansas City, Mo., suburban shopping center, in search of tornado victims.

Frank Cantoni Defeats McGuire In Charleroi

Frank Cantoni won the Democratic nomination for burgess in Charleroi yesterday, defeating incumbent James W. McGuire.

Cantoni polled 1024 votes to 906 for McGuire, according to unofficial returns. Fred Miller had no opposition on the Republican ticket.

In a mild surprise, Regis Carroll defeated Julius Petrilak, 998 to 965, in a tight Democratic race for tax collector. W. Ross Allen was opposed on the Republican side.

Four incumbent councilmen won Democratic nominations from a field of 17 candidates. They are Robert C. Richard, Pete Celaschi, Dr. Ray L. Spahr and Pete Tihansky Jr.

The Republican nominees, all unopposed, are N. O. Hunter, George O. Debolt, James R. Cahill, and Walter Behrendt.

Nominated for school director were Democrats Frank Pucci and James F. Buchanan and Republicans George Humphries and Armand A. Balsano.

The annual convention of District 13, United Steelworkers of America (AFL-CIO), opened in Uniontown this morning. Delegates representing 46,000 members are attending the two-day meeting.

District 13 is comprised of steel making areas of Monessen, Johnstown and Altoona. Eugene Maurice is director.

During the conference, delegates will elect four wage policy committee members to represent the district's 56 locals in the planning of future contracts with the industry.

Mollet Refuses To Remain After Losing Vote

PARIS (UP)—Premier Guy Mollet refused "absolutely" today to remain in office following his loss of a vote of confidence, and President Rene Coty began the long and difficult search for France's 23rd postwar government.

The National Assembly toppled the Socialist Party rule of Mollet shortly before midnight when it rejected his call for new taxes for the Algerian war by a vote of 250-213. It was not a majority of the 596-man house since 133 persons were absent or did not vote. But it was enough for Mollet and the 51-year-old premier quit.

Though the vote was on his call for 420 million dollars in new taxes the outcome reflected the divided feelings of France's 13 political parties on such diverse subjects as the Algerian rebellion, the Suez Canal invasion and the fight against inflation.

And it was this sharp division that presented Coty with the extremely difficult task of finding a new premier acceptable to the assembly which grouped itself in a dozen different ways to give Mollet 33 previous votes of confidence.

Sometimes Mollet had the support of the left and sometimes the right, and although his tenure was the longest of any postwar French premier—15 months and three weeks—it was as shaky as the 21 others during the 11 years of the Fourth Republic.

Small Fire in Yonkers Stall

YONKERS, N.Y. (UP)—A short circuit Tuesday night caused a small fire in a stall at the Yonkers Raceway.

The blaze, which was quickly brought under control by firemen, ignited the blanket covering the 5-year-old trotter Sullivan Hanover.

The horse bolted out of its stall with the blanket afire. Private policeman James J. McGrath grabbed the horse and removed the burning blanket.

said, he is for whatever candidate Republicans of any district nominate. But he said he naturally is more enthusiastic about some than others.

—He said the United States is trying to keep an open mind in the current big power disarmament talks in London and will try to meet any sincere Russian proposal half way. But he said we have to be especially careful of insuring an adequate inspection system when we are dealing with a country which has a long record of broken agreements.

—In response to a question, he said there is no doubt that some rich men have taken unfair advantage of the 27 per cent depletion allowance granted to oil well owners in their federal income tax returns. But he said he is not prepared to say the allowance is evil because it has served as an incentive for necessary oil exploration.

Nevada Tests

—He said he does not know of any U.S. atomic tests that are being planned for the Pacific Ocean area. The only tests he knows about are the forthcoming series in Nevada.

—The President said it has never even crossed his mind to suggest that Sen. William F. Knowland (R-Calif.) should resign as Senate Republican leader. Although Knowland has differed with him on some critical points of policy, the President said, this does not mean that Knowland is his enemy—it just means that Knowland has very strong convictions.

—He said the Army and State Department are still reviewing the case of Army Specialist 3-C William S. Girard of Ottawa, Ill., who was charged with manslaughter for killing a Japanese woman while on duty in Japan. Japan has demanded the right to try him in its own courts. Eisenhower said Girard is now in American custody and government agencies are trying to determine what would be just in his case.

Bell Development Is Demonstrated At Rotary Club

At the Tuesday noon luncheon of the Monessen Rotary Club at Johnson's restaurant, a former local man was guest speaker.

H. A. Byron, of Pittsburgh, supervisor in the public relations department of Bell Telephone Co., presented a lecture demonstration of one of the company's latest developments.

The Bell Solar Battery, the first successful device ever developed that will convert useful amounts of the sun's energy directly into electricity was displayed.

Byron operated a small motor and talked over a telephone powered by a beam of light during his demonstration. He stated that the principal element used in making the battery is silicon, which is obtained from common sand.

Hamer, Hancock Win Fayette City Battles

An expected fight for school director in Fayette City failed to materialize yesterday as incumbents G. C. Hancock and James E. Hamer both won nominations on both tickets.

Mrs. Ruth Lakel, an independent who waged a strong fight against Hamer, was a poor third.

A new burgess will be elected in November to replace Howard Opfar, who did not run for reelection. He will be Sherman Craft, who won nominations on both tickets.

A fight for council will be waged in November however between seven men for the four seats.

Jacob Zubovic, Louis Alberta, R. E. Ermlick and Marion DeRienzo won Democratic nominations for the council positions while write-in votes on the Republican ticket gave the four seats to Richard Richardson, Erwin Abbott, DeRienzo and William Gardner.

Charles L. Humphries was nominated on both tickets for the tax collector's post.

Others nominated on the Democratic ticket, also tantamount to election in November, included Richard Weightman, justice of the peace; Harry E. Nelson, auditor.

'Home Rule' Bill Gains a Victory

WHILE most of us were listening to local political arguments last week, a significant victory for better municipal government in Pennsylvania was won in the State Senate.

By a bi-partisan majority of 46 to 4, the Senate passed S-229, the so-called "home rule" bill for third class cities. This measure, which now goes to the House, would permit the citizens of these medium-sized cities, of which Monessen is one, to select by referendum the form of their local government.

We say the victory is especially significant because it has been the Senate which, in previous sessions of the legislature, has blocked "home rule" for the third class cities. The House has voted favorably on such legislation in the past.

So this change of sentiment in the Senate seems to offer hope that, at long last, the legal discrimination which binds the third class cities to the commission form of government may be ended. Boroughs, townships and larger cities have long had some flexibility in determining the type of regime best suited to their needs and the wishes of their citizens.

S-229 now goes to the House for consideration. And we hope public interest in it will be maintained and impressed upon members of that body.

WE HAVE discussed S-229 in some detail in this space on other occasions. So it will suffice at this time merely to mention its principal features.

If this bill becomes law, the people of the third class cities will have the right to choose one of these three forms of municipal government, all of which are in wide use:

1. The present commission system in which the council, consisting of five members, is both a legislative and administrative body with each member heading a separate department for administrative purposes.

2. The "strong mayor" system. Under this plan the council is a purely legislative and policy-making body, and the elected mayor, who is not a member of the council, is a powerful executive, having overall responsibility for administering all the departments.

3. The "council-manager" plan. Under this arrangement, the council functions as the policy-making body, and the executive is an appointed manager, usually professionally trained in municipal administration. The manager is responsible to the council and can be removed by it at any time. The council elects one of its own members as a mayor, and his functions are largely ceremonial.

WE HAVE contended for many years that the third class cities of Pennsylvania are just as much entitled as the peoples of boroughs and townships to decide for themselves what form of local government they want. Thirty-five years ago the voters amended the constitution to make that possible, but the legislature has all this time neglected to pass the required enabling law.

That neglect will now be remedied if the House concurs in S-229. And since Governor Leader has already declared his support of the bill, the chances now are better than they have ever been.

This would be a good time for interested citizens of third class cities to let their Harrisburg representatives know how they feel on this question.

Saturday Dilemma

BILLY GRAHAM, the evangelist who has taken on the interesting job of fighting sin in New York City, seems to have no limit to his courage. In addition to renting Madison Square Garden for six weeks with an option for another six — all in summer weather — the Rev. Mr. Graham has now decided to go on television Saturday nights at the same time as Perry Como and Jackie Gleason.

This is going to put those families with all-channel antennae squarely on the spot. It seems clear that they are going to have to make a choice among God, as represented by Billy, the quiet crooning and relaxed entertainment of Perry and the somewhat frantic comedy of Jackie. And we do not envy the member of the household who assumes control of the tuning knob at the crucial hour.

For us one-channel folks, however, life as usual is going to be much simpler. We will just have to deny ourselves Saturday-night redemption, let Perry make us drowsy enough to enjoy the indispensable bath and trust our own preachers to steer us from damnation at the regular time on Sunday morning.

Merry-Go-Round—

Old Guard Of GOP in The Saddle

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — Most significant fact about the President's battle of the budget is that he is being defeated by the two groups he rescued.

Last year when he was pondering whether a heart attack and an ileitis operation should bar him from running, two groups were loudest in demands that he make the sacrifice. They were:

Mr. Pearson

1. Old Guard Republicans who knew they couldn't win without Ike.

2. Big business, which has received more tax concessions, more helpful rulings from regulatory commissions than in any time in 20 years.

Today, however, it's the U. S. Chamber of Commerce and the National Association of Manufacturers which have kept up a steady drumfire against the budget. They began their campaign early. Not satisfied with record profits, they decided that a further tax cut was more important than schools for their children or the defense of the nation. Bitterly disappointed at the Eisenhower budget they launched an economy drive the like of which the country hasn't seen since the 1930's.

The disgruntled old guard latched on to this big business support. Ike could have stopped the economy landslide by throwing the full weight of his popularity into the breach when it first started. But he hung back, didn't want to tangle with Congress, ignored the advice of the palace guard that he must have a showdown.

Meanwhile the old guard also urged Ike not to tangle with Congress. The Republican leaders who come to see the President once a week are old guarders: Senators Knowland of California, Bridges of New Hampshire, with Joe Martin of Massachusetts, Charley Halleck of Indiana, is a middle-of-the-roader. The advice they gave him against a vigorous showdown was to their advantage. He took the advice.

Old Guard Now Controls

Today, as one result of taking their advice, complete control of the Republican party has gone back to the old guard. Control of the party was something they had had for years, and they wanted it back again. They lost it in 1956. In 1952 they didn't lose it. In that election, modern Republicans had to organize Citizens for Eisenhower in order to circumvent the old guard.

But in 1956, modern Republicans assumed control, and on the night he won, Nov. 6, the re-elected President proudly announced his intention to remake the Republican party in his own image.

Today, six months after that astounding victory, the old guard is back in the saddle. Here is what is happening:

1. Ex-Speaker Joe Martin has privately predicted "there won't be any modern Republicans running the 1958 election. They won't be able to win in the primaries."

2. Sen. Everett Dirksen of Illinois, an old guarder, has quietly pledged enough senatorial votes to make himself the Senate GOP leader when Bill Knowland goes back to California. This is what Lyndon Johnson did among the Democrats in 1952. The Democrats didn't particularly want Johnson, just as many Republicans don't want Dirksen. However, when put on the spot singly, and asked for a vote, it's difficult to turn a fellow-senator down. Dirksen is the man who launched the hate Dewey speech at Chicago convention in 1952.

3. Bill Knowland, who wasn't given a chance to win the GOP nomination in 1960, now is given a real chance. Vice President Nixon a converted modern Republican was considered a sure bet. Now it's about 50-50 between old guard Knowland and new guard Nixon.

This is how radically politics has switched as a result of the battle of the budget.

A-bombs for Korea? — Venerable President Syngman Rhee has kicked up a terrific backstage battle in Washington. He's finally convinced the United States to forget about the armistice and send new planes and weapons into South Korea . . . On top of that he's arguing that his 20 South Korean divisions should be given tactical atomic weapons and guided missiles similar to those being sent to the two American divisions in Korea . . . The Pentagon is flatly opposed. It fears the unpredictable Rhee might order his army to smash into North Korea as soon as he gets atomic bombs.

Arab Monarchs Huddle — Division in the Arab world is growing. King Faisal of Iraq expressed the view to King Saud of Saudi Arabia, during their huddle in Baghdad, that Egyptian dictator Nasser must be blocked from taking over the Arab world. Faisal is convinced Nasser has become so dependent on Russia that he is little more than a Red puppet. King Saud is determined, however, to avoid an open break with Nasser. He is demanding his fellow monarchs back the Arab world's number one enemy is still Israel.

From Washington—

Knowland's Plan for 1960

By ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Sen. William F. Knowland of California is now going after the 1960 Republican presidential nomination with both hands, — and a well laid plan.

It has been evident to any Washington correspondent, with an eye to see, that the Senator has had his gaze firmly fixed on the 1960 nomination for some time.

Mr. Drummond

This report is an attempt to assess his prospects, his progress and his strategy.

Mr. Knowland is not seeking the presidential nomination by talking about seeking it; he is seeking it by doing those things which will give him his best chance of getting it when the time comes.

Obviously predictions at this stage are silly, but what can be said is this:

That Mr. Knowland has made visible headway during the past several months and that his prospects are better today than at the opening of Congress.

Nixon Worried

That the Senator believes he can beat out Vice President Nixon despite the admitted lead the Vice President enjoys.

That Mr. Nixon is a little worried; not frantically worried, but a little worried. In talks with his political intimates he is known to express some concern as to what Mr. Knowland is up to and how well he is up to it.

What is Mr. Knowland's well-laid plan designed to lead up to the 1960 presidential nomination and to sideline Mr. Nixon somewhere along the way? It is a plan consistent with his convictions but also consistent with his objective.

Senator Knowland is more openly, more outspokenly and more regularly separating himself from the policies of President Eisenhower.

He is making himself the avowed and almost instant leader of attacks on the President's "Modern Republicanism" by the anti-Eisenhower and un-Eisenhower conservative forces in the Republican party.

To Widen Gap

When he resigns from the Senate next year, he will then use his completely independent position to widen the gap still further between the Eisenhower-Nixon Republican leadership and his own.

He will go after the nomination whether or not he runs for the governorship of California.

His plan is to give the Republican party and the 1960 national convention a clear and sharp alternative to the present liberal leadership of the party — and to leave Mr. Nixon wondering what happened to him.

The Senator is convinced that this approach to the nomination can be successful in 1960 even though be successful in 1960 even though it has not been successful since Mr. Hoover was President and never was successful on the three occasions when the much respected Robert A. Taft sought the nomination. From 1936 to 1956, from Landon to Wilkie, from Dewey to Eisenhower, the choice always went to the more liberal of the Republican candidates.

Adapts Strategy

But as with Senator Taft, Mr. Knowland is adapting his strategy to his beliefs. It is revealing to note how far he has taken himself from the policies of President Eisenhower whom he is now opposing more than he is supporting. Here are six examples:

Mr. Knowland attacks the White House for its decision to resume military aid to Tito.

Mr. Knowland criticises economic aid to Poland which the President believes will help keep it more independent of Moscow.

Mr. Knowland follows the President's nationwide appeal not to cut the budget with his own appeal to Congress to cut it $3 billion.

Mr. Knowland announces that he will oppose the President's program for limited, temporary federal aid to build public schools.

Mr. Knowland still withholds his much-needed support for the President's atoms-for-peace plan which will soon go before the Senate for ratification.

Mr. Knowland affirms that he will try to take the U. S. out of the U. N. if Red China is voted in.

Sees Conservatives Gaining

Before the present session of Congress is over, the Senator will be carving out still further his opposition to Eisenhower-Nixon Republicanism.

Here is what he sees as happening: he is decisively seizing the leadership of the conservative wing of the party; the conservatives in Congress are wresting the leadership of the party from Mr. Eisenhower as evidenced by the way the President is going down to defeat on the budget.

Hence, Mr. Knowland sees the 1960 presidential nomination more and more within his reach.

The Lighter Side—

Wise, Pugent Cracks Brighten Daily Living

By DOC QUIGG

NEW YORK (UP)—One of the delights of being a member of the human race is taking note of the occasional utterances that gleam in the news like diamonds in a dust pile.

Charles E. Wilson, for instance, is a sparkler who has brightened the recent years of our lives. You may remember some of his recent quotes but still have forgotten that back in 1954 he said:

"Back in Detroit we had a saying that an expert is a mechanic away from home."

In the same year, Ava Gardner came out with a recollection of how she crashed Hollywood. It went like this:

"After my screen test, the director clapped his hands gleefully and yelled: 'She can't talk! She can't act! She's sensational!' "

And Arnold Toynbee issued a rather affable historian's current characterization of the colossus of the new world: "America is a large, friendly dog in a very small room. Every time it wags its tail it knocks over a chair."

Those three nuggets are from a just published gold mine: "Best Quotes of '54, '55, '56," a compilation by James Beasley Simpson of the most memorable sayings of those three years by people large and small, famous and obscure.

The 1954 section alone is a joy to behold. A random tour produces comments to fit the problems of the time.

Sen. Homer Ferguson, for instance, took a good look at the phenomenon known as the egghead and arrived at his own definition.

"An egghead," he said, "is one who stands firmly on both feet in mid-air on both sides of an issue."

Omar Bradley, a man with time to evaluate his experiences as a fighting general, defined one of the imponderables of war:

"Bravery is the capacity to perform properly even when scared half to death."

Winston Churchill, a phrasemaker of long standing, let the world know what an appeaser is: "One who feeds a crocodile—hoping it will eat him last."

Churchill On Women

It was in 1954 also that Churchill was asked, by an ardent feminist about the role of women in the future. He replied: "It will be the same, I trust, as it has been since the days of Adam and Eve."

And in an address to the lord mayor's banquet in London, Churchill gave his philosophical outlook: "I am an optimist. It does not seem too much use being anything else."

Bishop Fulton Sheen uttered his celebrated definition: "Baloney is the unvarnished lie laid on so thick you hate it. Blarney is flattery laid on so thin you love it."

The compiler of this great subtreasury of the uttered thought does not confine himself to personalities. If you search, you can come across such fascinating lore as this from KLM, Royal Dutch Airlines:

"All elephants traveling by air are accompanied by a live hen which makes its home on the elephant's head during the trip. Elephants do not like to travel alone and the feathered companion has a calming effect . . ."

The Cynic's Corner—

"And when I said, 'A woman's work is never done', he said, 'That's because they never do it' . . . !"

Behind The News—

U. S. Personnel Problem With Closest Allies

By CHARLES M. McCANN

Two recent incidents have intensified a growing problem between the United States and some of its closest allies.

The incidents involve the extent to which local courts have jurisdiction over American military personnel stationed in foreign countries.

Mr. McCann

In on incident, Japanese authorities demand that an Army sergeant who killed a trespassing Japanese woman on a firing range be turned over to their courts for trial.

In the other, the Chinese Nationalist government is watching closely the trial by an Army court martial of a master sergeant who killed a Chinese peeping tom in Formosa.

Japanese Case Serious

The Japanese case has assumed serious proportions. It is likely to strengthen the demand of the Japanese government for a radical revision of the mutual security treaty which defines the status of American troops stationed on Japanese territory.

In the Formosa incident, the question of jurisdiction does not arise. American courts martial have full jurisdiction over all American soldiers stationed on the Nationalist stronghold island of Formosa.

But unless the sergeant now on trial is convicted, and given a severe sentence, the Nationalist government is expected to ask for an agreement, similar to that reached with Japan, for jurisdiction over soldiers charged with offenses against Chinese civilians.

Last Jan. 30, Sgt. William S. Girard, of Ottawa, Ill., was on an Army firing range near Tokyo. Several Japanese women trespassed on the range to pick up empty shell cases, which bring good prices as scrap metal.

The women ignored a warning to leave. Girard fired an empty shell case toward them from a grenade launcher to back up the warning. The shell case struck one of the women and wounded her fatally.

Argument Theoretically Clear

The wording of the mutual security agreement covering such cases is theoretically clear. A soldier on duty is subject to American military, not Japanese judicial, jurisdiction, unless it is agreed otherwise.

But the Japanese hold that Girard was not actually on duty when he fired the shell case. They demand that he be turned over to a Japanese court for trial. An indictment for manslaughter has been returned against him.

The situation has been complicated because the American command in Japan agreed to surrender Girard. But Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson overruled this decision and ordered that Girard be kept in Army custody.

Administration Dispute Reported

Tokyo dispatches report that there is a dispute between Wilson and the State Department, which wants Girard surrendered.

On Formosa, the wife of M Sgt. Robert G. Reynolds, of Colora, Md., saw a Chinese man staring through a bathroom window at her home while she took a shower. Reynolds ran outside with a pistol and killed the peeping tom. He said that he thought the Chinese was about to attack him.

Reynolds is on trial by court martial, charged with manslaughter.

The issue of court jurisdiction over American soldiers stationed in foreign countries has arisen previously in several countries.

The agreement with Japan is similar to that covering American soldiers stationed in European countries which are members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization. But the Japanese incident has become serious.

Adenauer's Visit Here May Win Him Votes

By THOMAS WEYR

WASHINGTON (UP) — German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is coming here next week in the hope that some of President Eisenhower's "magic" will rub off on him in the coming West German election.

Ever since Adenauer won an absolute majority in the 1953 elections after a public endorsement from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, German politicians have been convinced that talks with Eisenhower and a speech-making swing through the United States were good for the voters back in the Rhineland.

The chancellor faces a tough fight this year with the Social Democrats for control of the German parliament in the Sept. 15 elections. He will be trying to get as much political mileage as he can from his Washington talks.

During Adenauer's first visit to the United States in August 1953 Dulles said the Chancellor's defeat would be "a disaster" for the free world.

American officials believe that German interest in the United States is "a good thing" and reflects the success of U.S. policies pressing for speedy German unification. But they emphasized that the Chancellor would engage in serious discussions of world problems with U.S. leaders.

Eisenhower and Dulles will try to allay German fears that the United States is ready to conclude a "limited" disarmament agreement with the Russians without discussing the German problem. They will brief the Chancellor on progress at the London disarmament talks.

The problem of whether and how soon to equip German forces with nuclear arms and developments in Eastern Europe will also be discussed, officials said.

But Adenauer's schedule for his three day official visit to Washington beginning May 27 gives him plenty of opportunity for some old-fashioned politicking. He will have his picture taken with Mr. Eisenhower at the White House, receive an honorary membership in an American Rose Growers' Society and talk politics with congressional leaders.

Little League to Have Playoff

Monessen's Little League organization will try something new this season. The respective champions of the American and National Divisions will meet in mid-July for the city title. In the past, the Monessen Little Leaguers have confined their post season activity to the district playoffs . . . Incidentally, the Little League will operate on two diamonds this season: Memorial Stadium and the Stadium annex. The two divisions will alternate their playing sites each week . . . The Monessen Softball Umpires Association boasts a brother act — John and Dick DiBiaso . . . Tony Mascetta, former manager of the Monessen Ozarks, is back home for a brief stay from his job in Scranton. He represented the Ozarks at a Mon Valley League meeting the other night.

Jan Sikorsky, the Ramsay boy who set a national javelin record in the WPIAL meet last week, has received several scholarship offers because of his football talent. However Jan wants to devote his collegiate sports time to track and field. He flipped the javelin 222 feet 10¾ inches to beat the old mark of 219 feet set by Bob Peoples of Oklahoma City in 1937. That's a tremendous toss . . . Speaking of track, Monessen's Felton Brown won the Guy Flaherty trophy for placing first for Westminster College in the 100 yard dash of the Tri-State Meet last weekend at Allegheny College. The award was set up in honor of the late Carnegie Tech coach.

Midget League Meeting on Tuesday

The Monessen Midget Football League Board of Directors will meet next Tuesday in Memorial Civic Center to reorganize for the upcoming season . . . A slow-pitch softball tournament for girls will be staged in Richmond, Va., Aug. 31 and Sept. 1. Interested teams should contact Hank Wolfe, 118 Seneca Road, Richmond, Va., for further information . . . Ed Drapcho, standout pitcher at Penn State, has a 25-3 collegiate record. Over a three year period, the crafty southpaw fanned an average of 9.5 batters per game while giving up 4.7 hits and 2.7 walks. His ERA is 1.38 . . . Our baseball informant, Lou Kichinko, claims Nick Mahalko of the Charleroi Merchants and Mel Clickovich of the Monessen Ozarks, have already stroked this season two of the longest home runs he's ever seen clear the left field fence at Ninth Street Park.

Bucky Lutes, the Monessen man who scouts football talent hereabouts for Penn, reports that nine of his prospects will enroll at the Philadelphia school this fall . . . Harry (Doc) Poletini, who was to be named a deputy boxing commissioner a few years back before a serious illness, has come out of a delicate heart operation in fine Style. He is under orders to rest for six more months, but there are indications that he may lead a normal life after that . . . Says Charleroi's Gus Brickner: "I'll swim the English Channel or they'll pull me out of the water unconscious."

Kurey, Baker Will Leave Tomorrow

Monessen High's tennis doubles team of Joe Kurey and Jim Baker will depart tomorrow afternoon for Penn State. They will rest overnight at University Park, then take part in the PIAA tournament the following day . . . This afternoon the Greyhound tennis team will begin its post-season WPIAL bid against Latrobe at the Mt. Lebanon courts. Originally the match was scheduled for Monday, but rain interferred . . . Mon Valley League managers have promised Commissioner George Kuvinka that they'll do their best to keep their quick-tempered players under control. Kuvinka is determined to eliminate much of the bickering which has marred early season games.

Today's Sports Parade—

Fraley Puts Rap on Italian Road Race

By OSCAR FRALEY

NEW YORK (UP)—Herb Score is fighting for his sight and the Mille Miglia is fighting for its life today and, in defense of sports, you have to hope that the Indian fireballer wins and the Italian fireball loses.

There is a tremendous difference here. In one case, that of Score, he narrowly escaped a fate heading of an occupational hazard al injury which comes under the he faced alone. In the Italian road race, the race driving Marquis de Portago died but took 11 spectators with him.

The difference is that a man should be entitled to his destiny as long as it doesn't affect the innocent bystander.

Baseball is a game played on a policed area. Score took a line drive in the race and, conceivably, could suffer the loss of the sight of one eye. This is a rare case. Yet, it must be admitted, that potential is covered in an annual salary estimated at from $18,000 to $20,000.

Not Unsympathetic

Don't feel that this is an unsympathetic outlook. It is merely the realization, despite a feeling for [illegible] that Score had to be prepared for such an eventuality.

The Marquis de Portago, too, thought often of the hazards of driving a race car. Had he gone a [illegible] could fight it off with a [illegible] ache. But the tragedy of a those he took along—the reason that road races which can't be properly controlled from a spectator standpoint should be banned.

But don't say that auto racing as a whole should be banned.

In the United States they are operated on a safety-first standard. At Indianapolis, let's say, death is not too infrequent a visitor. But usually it is among the competitors and you can't stop men from racing.

They say that boxing is a brutal sport and some contend it should be outlawed. True, a dozen men were killed in boxing bouts last year. But boxing—or fighting—is a primeval instinct. Controlled properly it is no more dangerous than most.

How About Hockey?

Some 20,000 people were killed in falls last year. But should we stop trying to scale the heights?

The goalie in a hockey game faces a fatal thrust from a puck in every game and injuries are so frequent, and so disregarded, that the men of the rink glory in being the "toughest men in sports." The little men who go from rags to riches as jockeys despite their lack of stature face death each moment they thunder down the track. But why should anyone [illegible] them out of business?

Tunney Slated to Testify Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Both sides are expected to call important witnesses when the Justice Department and the International Boxing Club resume their verbal sparring today in U. S. District Court.

Gene Tunney, who became the richest heavyweight champion of all time, will testify for the defendants—Jim Norris, Arthur Wirtz and associates — who already have been found guilty of monopoly.

Julius Helfand, chairman of the New York state Athletic Commission, also is expected to be on hand as the hearings resume before Judge Sylvester Ryan.

The IBC was found guilty of monopoly in the conduct of title fights by Ryan on March 8. He is now hearing arguments from both sides before deciding what penalties to inflict.

New Eagle Wins Over Ozarks by Score of 6-5

Easter Paces Buffalo Nine

By UNITED PRESS

Luke Easter, a big, lumbering slugger who has finally reached his potential in the International League, is chiefly responsible for Buffalo's first-place position today.

The six-foot-four 235-pound first-baseman, who was said to have the makings of an all-time great when he broke in with Cleveland in 1949, hit two home runs Tuesday night as Buffalo walloped Montreal, 13-3, in a game played at Quebec. The wallops give Easter, now 35, a league - leading total of nine.

Jack Crimian, a recent acquisition from Kansas City, won his first decision as Toronto topped Rochester, 3-2. The victory, aided by Lew Morton's fifth homer, enabled the Leafs to remain in third place, half a game behind Buffalo.

The scheduled game between Richmond and Havana was postponed because of rain.

In a 16-inning game that lasted almost five hours, the Columbus Jets edged the Miami Marlins, 3-2. Bob Kuzava, who entered the game in the 15th inning, was the winner while John Anderson was the loser.

Visitors Nip Last Inning Threat To Knock Monessen from First

Everything went wrong with the Monessen Ozarks yesterday.

To begin with, Manager Pappy Johnson's boys lost a 6-5 decision to New Eagle at Ninth Street Park and thereby tumbled from first place in the Mon Valley League standings.

Oddly enough, the Ozarks almost didn't have enough players to even start the game. Two regulars are hurt, while two others were working in the mill and two more were electioneering.

As if that wasn't bad enough, a couple of the players went to New Eagle where the game was originally scheduled to be played.

It seems the site was shifted because Ninth Street had dried faster after Monday's rain. Some of the players weren't informed. Neither were the fans.

12 Spectators

As a result, just 12 spectators were on hand for the game.

One of the absentee players was Al Trozzo. He had gone to New Eagle with all of the Monessen equipment. Happily Trozzo made it back about ten minutes to seven.

In the meantime, New Eagle lent the Ozarks enough material to get the game started. And the visitors were rewarded for their kindness.

Fred Cox sent his team ahead in the second inning with a home run. The Ozarks came right back to tie the score on Bruce Pezzelle's single and Tom Rotherham's double.

That's the way the score remained until the fifth inning when New Eagle shoved over a pair. Lou Sepe tripled and came home on an error. Stan Lomago then singled in another tally.

In the sixth, the visitors tallied twice more. Dolf Conti started the fun wih a double. Joe Reale was hit by a pitched ball and Joe Bewick and Sepe produced doubles.

Ozarks Rally

In the sixth, the Ozarks came back with three runs. Carl Crawley homered over the centerfield fence. Mel Clickovich singled and Johnson followed with a homer.

New Eagle made it 6-4 in the seventh on a homer by Jess Leach. The visitors threatened further but Bill Mitnick came in to quiet things.

It was Mitnick's sixth pitching appearance of the season.

Monessen almost pulled the game out in the final frame. Ron Campbell opened with a homer. Al Trozzo doubled.

At this point, Bewick saved the day for New Eagle. He made a fine running catch of Rotheram's blooper to center, then doubled off the runner at second.

Vic Furiga received credit for the win. Pezzelle was tagged with the loss.

DOCTORING YOUR GOLF

Sand Trap

Don't get panicky just because you're in a sand trap. If you have a pretty good lie, and there is no bank or other intervening obstacle that makes it necessary to get the ball up quickly, the shot is not much different from the ordinary iron shot from grass.

The first essential is that you have firm footing for this shot. Then determine to make the swing more with the arms and shoulders than you would ordinarily. Do not raise your left heel at all on the backswing. An inward turn of the left knee and ankle will give you the necessary body turn to complete the backswing for this shot.

After that, you'll need confidence. Hit the shot as if it were a normal iron shot — down and through the ball, keeping the head still until after the ball is met and away. You cannot, of course, ground your clubhead before starting the backswing. Just waggle the club above the sand and and go slowly and smoothly into your backswing.

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UP) — Robert Mathis made a carbon monoxide trap of his automobile Tuesday by running a hose from the exhaust pipe through the rear window.

Little League Banquet Tonight

Brooklyn Scout Jim Russell to Speak at Annual 'Kickoff' Event

Monessen's Little League will officially begin its 1957 program tonight with the annual "kickoff" dinner at its Slovak Home.

Jim Russell, former big leaguer from Fayette City, will headline the speaking program.

Honored guests will include graduates of the Little League program. They will receive lapel pins.

About 300 persons are expected for the banquet.

Past presidents Joseph Waggoner and Robert Cina will join Russell on the speakers rostrum.

Civic, school and recreation department officials have also been invited.

Preston Toastmaster

Thomas Preston, former director of the vocational school, will serve as toastmaster.

The invocation and benediction will be by Rev. Lester Crum, pastor of the Evangelical United Brethren Church.

Sugar Ray May Met Basilio

NEW YORK (UP) —Sugar Ray Robinson has "agreed in principle" to defend his middleweight title against welterweight champion Carmen Basilio, probably in September, a spokesman for the Intrenational Boxing Club said today.

In a discussion with IBC President Jim Norris, Robinson was asked to accept an earlier date for the title fight but declined, the spokesman added.

The actual contract negotiations are not expected to take place until Basilio and his handlers return from a tour of the West Coast.

Coast League Cracks Down On Scholarships

SPOKANE, Wash. (UP) —The nine Pacific Coast Conference representatives wrestled again today with the weighty problem of aid Tuesday the representatives established a new rule limiting tuitional grants in aid from sources outside the schools.

However, no action was taken on an actual dollars-and - cents proposal for aid based on the cost of living at the various schools.

A total of 150 grants per quarter or semester will be allowed each school beginning Sept. 1, 1958. Of these, 75 may be for football and 20 for basketball.

Previously, a limit of 60 grants from school funds was in effect but there was no control over the number of grants from contributions. The 60-grant limit from institutional funds will be retained.

Chisox Win Eighth Straight; Top Yanks

By UNITED PRESS

Those "Go, go" White Sox are going all right, with eight straight victories and a cozy two-game lead, but get a load of Casey Stengel, who is slowly going daffy because his world champion Yankees "ain't hitting a lick."

That was the story Tuesday night as southpaw Billy Pierce limited the Yankees to four hits in beating them, 3-1, for his sixth victory and the White Sox' first over the Bronx Bombers this season.

Pierce, who struck out eight batters to take over the American League lead with 45 strikeouts, said it was "the best game" he pitched all year.

"He pitched a fine game," Stengel conceded gloomily, "but it doesn't matter who's pitching against us these days. We're not hitting any of 'em."

The Yankees have dropped three of their last four games and in each of those defeats they scored only one run.

Error Yank Downfall

A sixth-inning error by rookie second baseman Bobby Richardson paved the way for three unearned runs and the downfall of Whitey Ford, making his first start since May 4. Jim Rivera singled home the first run, Bubba Phillips drove in the second with a squeeze bunt and Pierce singled home the third.

Reno Bertoia, Detroit's big surprise this year, singled home the winning run with two out in the 16th inning in the Tigers' 2-1 victory over Orioles; Camilo Pascual pitched his first major league shutout and the first by a Washington pitcher this year to defeat Kansas City, 3-0, and Cleveland beat Boston, 8-2, with the aid of five Red Sox errors.

In the National League, southpaw Johnny Podres hurled Brooklyn to a 6-1 decision over Cincinnati; the Cubs nipped the Giants, 4-3; Milwaukee and Philadelphia played to a 1-1 tie before rain caused the game to be called after five-and-a-half innings, and the Pittsburgh - St. Louis game was washed out by rain.

Bertoia's 10th inning single off reliever Mike Fornieles scored Paul Foytack from second with the run that broke up a deadlock which had existed since the sixth. Ray Moore pitched the first 15 innings for the Orioles, allowed only eight hits, and accounted for Baltimore's only run with his third homer of the season in the third inning.

Pascual struck out eight men and gave up seven hits in beating the Athletics. Rinold Duren, the Kansas City starter, retired the first 15 batters in order, then gave up a homer to Lou Berberet in the sixth. The Senators scored another run off him in the seventh and their final run off reliever Virgil Trucks in the eighth.

Homer Helps Wynn

Chico Carrasquel's grand - slam homer helped Early Wynn to his victory over the Red Sox. Wynn pitched a seven-hitter for his fifth victory while Dave Sisler was the loser. Shortstop Billy Klaus, who committed three of Boston's errors, had to leave the game in the seventh inning when he was hit in the face by a ground ball.

Podres scattered nine hits and did not walk a batter while leading the Dodgers to their fifth straight victory. The only run off him was Ed Bailey's second inning homer. PeeWee Reese and Sandy Amoros homered for Brooklyn. Hal Jeffcoat was the loser.

Cal Neeman's ninth inning single scored Jim Bolger from second with the run that gave the Cubs their first home victory of the season. Stu Miller of the Giants had a 3-2 lead going into the ninth but an error by third baseman Foster Castleman set the stage for the Cubs' triumph, credited to reliever Turk Lown. Willie Mays stole home and also homered for the Giants.

Don Cardwell of the Phils and Gene Conley of the Braves were locked in a pitchers' duel when halted the game. It will be replayed at a later date.

Homer Production Down in Majors

NEW YORK (UP)—The spitball nobody throws...a new "dead ball" in play...or perhaps the hitters are tired...whatever the reason, big league pitchers have cut down sharply on homer production this year.

A United Press survey of the first 225 games played this season and last reveals an overall 18.7 per cent decrease. The drop is 21 per cent in the National League and 15.2 in the American with only four of the 16 teams showing a rise in production from 1956.

The Kansas City Athletics show the biggest rise, 34.7 per cent, followed by the Baltimore Orioles' 30.7, the Chicago White Sox' 28.6 and the New York Giants' 11.1.

The Cincinnati Redlegs, Pittsburgh Pirates and Chicago Cubs have suffered the biggest drops in the NL, while the Washington Senators, Detroit Tigers, Boston Red Sox and New York Yankees show the sharpest decreases in the AL.

Monessen High Tennis Team in Tournament Assignment Today

Monssen High's tennis team will begin WPIAL tournament play today.

The MHS netters will take on favored Latrobe at the Mt. Lebanon courts in a semi-final contest.

The other semi-final will pair Mt. Lebanon against Tarentum at Edgewood.

Today's survivors will meet for the title at a later date.

WPIAL observers pick Latrobe as the team to beat in the tourney.

Fine Player

The Wildcats boast the district's finest player in Walter Berberich. They also have a slick doubles team of Mark Witkin and Tom Senior.

Monessen's hopes today hinge on a pair of juniors, Joe Kurey and Jim Baker. Together, they form the WPIAL doubles champ.

However the two boys must win their singles tests, too, if Monessen is to upset Latrobe.

Kurey Undefeated

Kurey, who is also undefeated in singles play, will have to trip Berberich. The feeling is that the job may be too tough.

At any rate, the Greyhounds — Section 4 champions — will give Latrobe a tough time. Ron D'Angelo, Dennis D'Alessio and George Selelyo complete the MHS net squad.

Latrobe is the Section 3 champion.

Tomorrow, Kurey and Baker will leave for Penn State where they will represent the WPIAL in the state-wide doubles tournament on Friday and Saturday.

Herb Score May Return Soon

CLEVELAND (UP) — Another encouraging medical report today strengthened hopes that Cleveland pitcher Herb Score may be able to return to the mound shortly after June 9, the day his name is removed from the disabled list.

The report, issued by eye specialist Dr. Charles Thomas and Indians team physician Dr. Donald Kelly, said X-rays have shown that Score has no fractures of the eye and no displacement of the nasal bone.

The doctors said tests to determine if Score has suffered any loss of vision may be started today or later this week.

Bucs Play Cards Again Tonight

ST. LOUIS (UP)—Pittsburgh Pirate righthander Bob Friend, who was scheduled to pitch against the St. Louis Cardinals last night before rain washed the game out, retained his starting assignments for tonight's game here.

Friend, who is 3-3 this season, last season shut out the Cardinals three times in recording a 4-1 record over the St. Louis team.

Lindy McDaniel (2-1) was named to start for the Cardinals.

Jordan authorities ordered the public hanging today of four men who plotted to overthrow King Hussein during the recent political crisis touched off by his leftist opponents.

Wooden gallows were erected in the main squares of four of Jordan's cities where anti-Hussein and anti-Western demonstrations were crushed by loyal Bedouin tribesmen of the one-time Arab Legion.

The four plotters were the first to be condemned to death for their activities.

Egypt Watching France

Egypt, which appeared to have lost much of its close ties with Jordan as result of the crisis and its anti-Hussein propaganda, turned its attention today to France and the United Nations.

Egyptian political circles were overjoyed at the downfall of Premier Guy Mollet and called it a "resounding victory" for President Gamal Abdel Nasser and his Suez Canal policies.

They were equally pleased with outcome of the French-inspired U.N. Security Council debate on the Suez. That ended with only a "suggestion" that Egypt remove Western doubts about Egyptian regulations for operating the canal.

Two of the three prime ministers who ordered attacks against Egypt last fall have fallen — British Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden and Mollet. Jerusalem dispatches today reported the third, Premier David Ben-Gurion, facing a cabinet crisis over the Eisenhower Doctrine.

Pineau, Dag Confer

French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau, who holds office in name only, conferred today in New York with U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold on the Suez situation—his last official act in office.

U.N. reports said he was consulting Hammarskjold about a proposal that Hammarskjold consult with France and Egypt in hope of reconciling the Egyptian canal code with Western objections to it.

In Cairo most observers believed France would have no other course now except to end its boycott of the canal.

Fathers Ineffective

LA MESA, Calif. (UP) — Male school teachers of the La Mesa Valley School district have been authorized to take one day off with pay whenever they become a father. The district trustees agreed Tuesday a teacher is not in any condition to teach "effectively" the day after becoming a father.

Search on for Flares

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (UP) — The Navy mustered ground parties today to search for a pod of 52 "extremely dangerous" magnesium flares which ripped from the wing of a jet photo plane over central Florida.

"One of these flares would light up Times Square so bright you couldn't even see the lights of Broadway," chief journalist Bob Ohl said at the Jacksonville Naval Air Station.

The pod, wherever it lies, may be triggered by the slightest impact or even by a hot sun, Ohl said. He said the 52 flares would have a total brilliance of more than 2,500,000,000 cancle power.

In another mishap, possibly related, an explosion followed by a ball of fire shook residents of Cocoa Beach Tuesday night. Unconfirmed reports said a guided missile exploded on the launching bed at the Patrick Air Force Base guided missile test center.

The four-foot, streamlined pod dropped from the wing of an F9F-8P Cougar jet piloted by Lt. (JG) Edward Choriton Tuesday night about seven miles southwest of Lake George, the Navy said.

Ohl said it was believed unlikely the pod fell near any developed property but said it was feared likely to touch off a fire in the Ocala National Forest if triggered by an animal or by the sun.

The pilot intended to release the flares one at a time while photographing the impact zone of a target area at Pinecastle Air Force Base, Ohl said. Each flare would light up a five-mile area, he said.

When authorized by an Act of Congress, March 16, 1802, the strength of the corps of cadets at the United States Military academy was set at five officers and 10 men. Today the authorized strength of the corps is 2,496 men.

'BANKED' FOUR HOURS BY PAL — John Chaffee, Jr., 17, nearly has to be carried from old bank vault in New Haven, Mich., where he was imprisoned four hours. Smoke from a cutting torch got him. Lawrence Wins; Jeannette and Beaver Falls Mayors Defeated

By UNITED PRESS

Democratic mayors David L. Lawrence of Pittsburgh and James T. Hanlon of Scranton, both seeking fourth-terms, and mayors of 11 third class cities won renomination in Tuesday's off-year primary elections

Voters balloted for nominees for mayor in 23 cities, and in 14 of the 16 cities where incumbents were running they had opposition

Democratic incumbents were defeated in Jeannette and Beaver Falls and in New Kensington the incumbent won by a scant 48 votes.

The recent disclosures of labor racketeering in Scranton and the Senate rackets investigation, in which Mayor Hanlon's name was mentioned apparently did not figure in that city's primary voting results

The sole interest in the Pittsburgh voting was in the Republican primary in which John Drew, a former appointed judge who failed to win election to a full term in 1954, scored somewhat of an upset by defeating Joseph A McArdle 53, a long-time Democrat politico who turned Republican and was backed by most ward leaders.

Had Little Opposition

Lawrence received only token opposition from Theodore Moritz a former congressman.

Democratic mayors won renomination in seven cities—Pittsburgh, Scranton, New Kensington, McKeesport, Monessen, Bethlehem and Clairton

Republican mayors were renominated in six cities—Corry, Shamokin, Hazleton and Nanticoke, where they had opposition, and Duquesne and Butler where they were unopposed.

Sunbury Mayor Allan M. Wolfe was defeated for the Republican nomination by Lester P. Shissler, 1 006 to 509, in one of the biggest election upsets in the city's history. Wolfe had been backed by the GOP organization Guy Herod was unopposed for the Democratic nomination.

Nanticoke Mayor Frank Binda who was seeking a third term, lost the Democratic nomination to Edward A. Wolfe, a state committeeman, in a three-way contest. Edward Ferris, an automobile dealer, won the Republican nomination.

Four Man Fight

Beaver Falls Mayor Edward C Corcoran lost renomination in a four-way contest won by John Buksa. Roy J. Davidson won the Republican nomination

In New Kensington, Mayor Raymond Garlock barely won nomination in the Democratic primary, defeating Edward Zaleski, a city councilman, 2,653 to 2,605

Republican mayors did not seek nomination in 7 cities—Franklin, Lancaster, Greensburg, Pittston, Meadville, Connellsville and Pottsville

In the Republican balloting in Pittsburgh, Drew won by a better than 2-1 margin.

The former Common Pleas Court judge was a Johnny-come-lately on the political scene For some time, the Republican picture in Pittsburgh had been marked by an unwillingness on the part of more prominent Republicans to challenge "The Champ," as Lawrence was tagged

Got Top Backing

Drew was put forward by the so-called "money men" in the GOP and his supporters appeared to be making a determined effort to take over control of the oft-divided Republican Party in Allegheny County.

In Scranton, Hanlon defeated Edward Levelle a state capitol policeman and political unknown, by a better than 6-1 margin Harry A. Lewis, an accountant and former city councilman who had the support of the GOP organization, won the Republican nomination in a three-way race.

An odd sidelight in the mayoralty primaries occurred at Corry, Erie County, where a loser unexpectedly found himself also a winner.

Former Mayor J. Fred Kinley was defeated for the GOP nomination by incumbent Mayor Earl Cherry. But the Democrats, who had no one listed on their ballot, gave Kinley 148 write-in votes to 29 for Cherry.

Kinley said he would decide within a week or so whether he would run in November on the Democratic ticket.

Other mayoralty results:

Bethlehem: Mayor Earl Schaffer, Democratic; Leonard Rice, Republican.

Butler: Harry Pepper, a florist, won the Democratic nomination in a three-way race Republican Mayor Walter Schweppe was unopposed.

Clairton: Mayor Kenneth L Sulley won the Democratic nomination in a three-way race. Republican James F. Kemp was unopposed.

Connellsville: Dr J Harold Dull, Republican; school teacher Robert McLuskey, Democrat

Duquesne: Republican Mayor Frank Kopriver and Democrat Leonard C Stalsey were unopposed

Franklin. Forest B Irwin, an attorney, won the Republican nomination. Democrat Fred Plummer, a Highways Department employe, was unopposed.

Greensburg: Homer Ruffner, a city councilman, won the Republican nomination Democrat DeWeese B. Armbrust, businessman, was unopposed

Hazleton: Mayor S Thomas Capparell won the Republican nomination. Democrat Dennis Duffy was unopposed.

Lancaster: Both Democrat Thomas J Monaghan and Republican Harold W. Budding were unopposed.

McKeesport: Mayor Andrew Jakomas won the Democratic nomination Republican Clifford Flegal was unopposed.

Meadville: B W Mossman sales engineer, won the Republican nomination. There was no Democratic candidate.

Nanticoke: Mayor Frank E. Kielear won the Republican nomination. Democrat Joseph A. Grabowski was unopposed

Pittston: Police Chief Patrick J. O'Brien won the Republican nomination and John G McNamara the Democratic nomination

Pottsville: David Reeves defeated Cy Collins for the GOP nomination. Democrat Mike Close was unopposed.

Shamokin: Mayor Lester W Weller won the Republican nomination. Democrat Leon Misco was unopposed.

The heat generated by lighting a match reaches a maximum of some 1,700 degrees.

Luzerne Voters 'Slap' Fine; Light Turnout For State Balloting

By UNITED PRESS

Luzerne County voters handed former Gov. John S Fine a double-barreled defeat in his effort to return to public office by seeking Republican and Democratic nominations to a common pleas court judgeship.

The Republican ex-governor's dismal setback caught the political spotlight in Tuesday's primary—an unexciting off-year election without a single statewide office or issue at stake.

The balloting, which drew an extremely light turnout from the state's more than five million registered voters, was spirited only occasionally at local levels where thousands of party candidates vied for November ballot positions for county and municipal offices.

Twenty - three mayoralties were at stake, led by Pittsburgh and Scranton and 21 third class cities

Wins Without Support

In Pittsburgh, former Judge John Drew, running without ward leader support, swamped Joseph McArdle, a former Democratic leader, for the GOP nomination will face Mayor David L Lawrence in November.

In Scranton, incumbent Mayor Joseph T. O'Hanlon won renomination handily despite an unfavorable atmosphere created by current Senate probing into labor racketeering in that northeastern Pennsylvania city.

In Berks County, House Minority Leader Albert S. Readinger won a Democratic common pleas court nomination by defeating Emanuel Weiss by nearly three to one. A member of the state legislature since 1936. Readinger will be opposed in November by James W. Berdolet, who was not contested for the GOP court nomination.

Montour County had the only special election, and voters there elected Democrat Donald Whitenight to the Pennsylvania General Assembly seat vacancy created by the death of Republican Donald R. Quigg last December Whitenight defeated Republican William Booth by 2,343 to 1,611 and thus succeeds the man who knocked him out of the state last November.

Three Incumbents Lose

In the mayoralty balloting, 13 incumbent mayors won renomination. Three incumbents — at Sunbury, Beaver Falls, and Jeannette —were defeated.

Fifty-nine communities voted on beer and liquor sales Scores of others balloted on local bond issues, school jointures and other types of referenda.

Fine tossed his hat in the ring after 3½ years out of the state's highest office by running on both the GOP and Democratic tickets for the Luzerne County court where nominations were open for three spots on the common pleas bench The three sitting judges—John J Aponick, Frank L Pinola, and Thomas M Lewis—assured themselves of November victories by winning handily on both sides with Fine a poor fourth in his bid for a GOP nomination and a last-place sixth on the Democratic slate

Fifty judgeships were up for nomination in counties throughout the state, and there were contests in either one or both party slates in 19 races Four out of six associate judgeship nominations were contested.

In Allegheny County where 14 candidates scrambled for six common pleas bench nominations, sitting judges Harry D Montgomery, Henry D Ellenbogen John J. Kennedy A Marshall Thompson and Homer Brown appeared certain of November election by apparently sweeping the first five places on both the GOP and Democratic tickets.

Incomplete returns also assured William F Cercone who like Brown is serving by appointment of a Democratic nomination But on the Republican side Cercone was far out of the race with Mt Lebanon attorney John V Snee holding a narrow margin in sixth position

Other judicial highlights

Fayette: President Judge W Russell Carr was assured of re-election by nomination on both tickets Unopposed as a Republican, ne outran attorney Joseph E Kovach 16,931 to 13 577 for the Democratic bid Orphans Court Judge Ross S Matthews unopposed on the Republican ticket was defeated for the Democratic nomination by former Dist Atty James A Reilly The count was Reilly, 10 473 Matthews 8,676 and Anthony R Cavalcante 8 555

Allegheny: Judge A L Wolk won the Democratic nomination for re-election to orphans court but lost the GOP nomination to Charles A. Woods Jr.

White House in Dispute Over Soldier in Japan

WASHINGTON (UP)—The White House today stepped into a dispute over whether the United States or Japan should try an American soldier for the slaying of a Japanese woman

Informed sources said a high-level decision could be expected soon.

The case has become a newspaper sensation in Japan where some elements demand the right to try Army Specialist Third-Class William S. Girard of Ottawa, Ill. They contend that American refusal to turn Girard over to Japanese courts violates the U.S.-Japanese status of forces agreement and infringes on Japan's sovereignty.

State Department officials are concerned because the affair has caused a worsening of Japanese-American relations on the eve of a visit to the United States by Japanese Premier Nobusuke Kishi. Kishi is due here June 19 for talks with President Eisenhower and other officials.

Army Secretary Wilber M Brucker was said to have raised the case at a meeting he attended Tuesday between Eisenhower and Republican contressional leaders.

Fine's Bid Rejected

WILKES-BARRE Pa (UP) — Former Gov. John S. Fine's bid to reenter the political arena was overwhelmingly rejected by Luzerne County voters

Fine, coming out of retirement with a vengeance, was swamped in his bid for Common Pleas Court Judge, and his candidates for county row offices were left far in the rear as a result of Tuesday's primary.

With 408 of the county's 411 precincts reported, Fine trailed his closest opponent on the GOP ticket by almost 20 000 votes with 33 571 The organization-backed incumbent judges and their votes were, Thomas M Lewis, 56 587; John J. Aponick, 56,453 and Frank L. Pinola, 52 160.

The three incumbents also were leading on the Democratic ballot where Fine found the comeback trail even steeper. The former governor was trailing monumentously in sixth place in the Democratic balloting

On the Democratic side the balloting was: Aponick 21 169; Lewis 13,438, Pinola 12 377, Brown 9,843 Kasper 7,612. Fine 5 830

Fine was engaged in a head-on battle with county GOP chairman Peter Clark for control of the organization. The former governor had been blamed by many Luzerne County Republicans for providing Democrats with the ammunition to win with Gov. George M Leader.

Billy Graham In Sermon on Commandments

NEW YORK (UP)—Billy Graham Tuesday night preached a fiery sermon on the Ten Commandments — with emphasis on adultery and murder — before an audience of 17,500 that included former racketeer Mickey Cohen and two bodyguards.

Graham said before his sermon that although he knew Cohen was in the audience his words would not be directed specifically at the one-time czar of the West Coast underworld.

After the sermon, Cohen and Graham had a brief private meeting in Billy's office and then Cohen and his two bodyguards dashed off to catch a plane for Chicago.

An estimated 600 persons came forward to make "decisions for Christ" following what may have been the 38-year-old revivalist's most effective of seven Madison Square Garden sermons to date A crusade official said Graham's exhortations on the Ten Commandments invariably "get a tremendous response."

In the first week of Graham's New York Crusade, 4,545 persons have come forward to "accept Jesus Christ." More than 117,500 have heard Graham in the first seven nights of his crusade.

Ambassadors of Good Will for Foreign Travelers

WASHINGTON (UP)—A million Americans are about to be drafted to serve as "ambassadors of goodwill" abroad. If you're planning a trip to foreign lands, consider yourself selected.

This unpaid special duty will begin when you board a ship or plane. You'll receive from the steward or purser a "make a friend" pamphlet. From that point on you'll become a key figure in President Eisenhower's "people to people" program.

The program's transportation industries committee, one of 41 private groups working on the campaign to win friends for America, released today its major contribution.

It's a catechism for American tourists designed to encourage them to behave like nice, friendly people, keep their boasting to a minimum and their critical thoughts to themselves.

From now on if you accept the ambassadorial role you'll have to take the ice cold fried eggs and hot milk of a Japanese "Western style" breakfast with a polite smile.

And you'll tread lightly on French politics, Middle East religions and certain other countries' plumbing deficiencies.

Assembly to Return Tomorrow For Bitter Debate Over Budget

HARRISBURG (UP) — The General Assembly returns Wednesday after a six-day recess braced for bitter debate and controversy over the plan of Republican legislative leaders to chop almost 100 million dollars from Gov. George M. Leader's General Fund budget.

The GOP came up with a $1,418,244,773 fiscal blueprint geared to no new taxes, continuance of many present programs at current expenditures, and a ban on all new programs or "untried experimentation."

It would also cover an estimated $82,500,000 deficit at the end of the present two-year fiscal period May 31.

Less than 24 hours after the unveiling of the long-awaited Republican plan the governor set the tone of the expected Democratic opposition in the Assembly with a charge that the GOP performed "reckless surgery" on the "bone, muscle and sinew of needed services" for Pennsylvania.

Leader said the Republican leaders put "priority on special interests instead of the people's interest" and described the budget cuts as "the most shocking example I have ever seen of being penny-wise and people foolish."

"The budget I handed to the Legislature had no fat in it," he said. "I had personally cut 175 million dollars from the requests of the various departments, believing that I had a duty to the taxpayers of this state to submit one of the expected Democratic minimum requirements."

The governor said, for example, that a recommended 67 per cent slash in the Commerce Department's appropriation will cost the state new housing, slum clearance, new industry and jobs.

However, the GOP countered with the argument that continuing appropriations for industrial promotion and housing and redevelopment assistance would leave substantial balances for those purposes.

The Republicans also contended their proposed appropriations for the next two years were still more than 143 million dollars over expenditures for the same programs in the current fiscal period.

One of the hardest hit agencies was the Welfare Department, with a proposed cut of more than 27 million dollars.

The GOP planners agreed with the governor on allocations for state-aided universities and colleges for the 1957-59 period. The biggest allocation in that category would be $27,713,400 for Pennsylvania State University, although it has been described as a "disaster budget" by Dr. Eric A. Walker, university president.

The Republican budget position was outlined by Rep. Norman Wood (Lancaster), chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, who said the administration's plans for increased services would entail a minimum of 100 million dollars in new tax revenues.

The Senate will reconvene Wednesday at 4 p.m. edt and the House a half hour later.

Skeleton Found Beneath Floor

CAMDEN, N.J. (UP) — A human skeleton believed to be more than 60 years old was discovered today by workmen digging beneath the floor of a machine shop at the New York Shipbuilding Corp. here.

A maintenance crew was moving an old piece of machinery when they came upon some human bones and eventually unearthed a skeleton from a narrow opening beneath the floor.

The bones were believed to have been there since the machine was installed in the 1890's.

The skeleton was taken to the Police Identification Bureau and experts called in to conduct an analysis of the bones.

'Perky' Peggy in New Career

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Being fired and falling in love are the two reasons why Peggy King, the one-time "pretty, perky" singer on the George Gobel show, has begun a new career as a dramatic actress in the movies.

It's difficult to figure how shy people wind up in show business but Peggy admits she was so shy she couldn't imagine herself as an actress.

Peggy was pushed into trying it when a new producer took over the Gobel show last fall and told us he didn't want to use any of the old cast." The big-eyed singer was adrift for a while but then she became engaged to pianist Andre Previn (They'll marry next year after his divorce is final) "and he helped me get over my shyness so I could try new things."

"You know that shy, little girl I portrayed on the Gobel show? Well, that was really me," said Peggy today. "I never was perky. I was petulant, pensive. I always sang sad songs because I never wanted to sing happy songs.

"I didn't think I was pretty. Then I met Andre. He always thought I was so pretty. Suddenly I began to worry about how my hair looked. I had my teeth capped. And, of course, he thinks I'm the best singer in the world."

"I'd always wanted to be an actress. Now Andre has given me confidence in myself."

The new Peggy King was born the day she was bounced off the Gobel show. But singing on the show "was like brushing my teeth, so I was getting downright lazy. When you stay on a program you get comfortable and hate to leave."

"Losing the show is the best thing that happened to me," she reflected. "People thought I could do nothing but rub foreheads with George and sing a few quiet songs.

"Now I've played a 14-year-old girl on 'Jack And The Beanstalk' and a pregnant wife on 'Matinee Theater'. I've sung at the cocoanut Grove and Las Vegas and now I'm doing an honest, dramatic role in my first movie."

Peggy's movie debut is as an airline stewardess in 'Zero Hour' a Hall-Bartlett production from a hit TV drama.

"All the TV dramatic shows and movie studios have made offers," she said eagerly. "Now I've shown people I can belt a song, dance and act. I'm glad I was fired. Now I'm just not a singer."

"Of course, I'm grateful to George," she added. "His show made me what I am. It was a wonderful steppingstone."

SALLY'S SALLIES

"Don't worry, su. Operations are always perfect in the movies."

Civil Rights Approval

WASHINGTON (UP) — Jubilant supporters of President Eisenhower's civil rights program today forecast that it will easily pass the House.

But the bill's prospects in the Senate remained most uncertain.

The House Rules Committee voted 8-4 Tuesday to send the bill to the House floor. Chairman Emanuel Celler of the House Judiciary Committee said the bill will be called up for action the week of June 3.

He predicted the House will pass it by at least 60 votes after a 'free-for-all' fight.

Supporters will try to bring the bill before the Senate after the House completes action on it. A filibuster by southerners is a virtual certainty if the bill reaches the Senate floor.

That could kill it.

Other congressional news:

Taxes: Prospects for an early tax cut were dimmed by a report from congressional tax experts that federal spending is outdistancing budget cutting. However, many Democrats believed a Jan. 1 tax cut still may be voted this year.

Appropriations. Economy advocates in the House fought to halt construction of the already-started new 64 million dollar House office building. Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said: "I'm not offended by that hole in the ground. Let it stand as a testimonial to the first real economy bomb the House has dropped."

Leaks: Sen. Henry M. Jackson (D-Wash.) called for imposing fines or jail sentences on persons giving or receiving unauthorized information from federal regulatory agencies. Jackson made the proposal after Chairman James R. Durfee of the Civil Aeronautics Board told the Senate Investigating Subcommittee that confidential information leaked from the CAB at least three times in the last 10 months.

Committees: Sen. Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.) replaced the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.) on the Senate Appropriations Committee. Sen. Clifford P. Case (R-N.J.) filled the vacancy Ives' new assignment left on the banking committee. Sen. Homer Capehart (R-Ind.) replaced McCarthy on the Government Operations Committee.

Woman Loses; Husband Fights With Newsman

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (UP) — Mrs. Evelyn Neff, whose candidacy for a township office touched off a fist fight between her husband and a local newspaper executive, went down to defeat in Tuesday's primary election.

Mrs. Neff, whose husband, Samuel, is Beaver County Democratic chairman, was beaten for the party's nomination for tax collector of North Sewickley Twp., by Olive Smilek, 323 to 180.

The fisticuffs involving Mrs. Neff's husband and James H. March, 60, executive vice president and general manager of the Beaver Falls News-Tribune, were reported to have occurred in a hotel here Monday.

Neff, 40, an employe of the state Workmen's Compensation Board, was incensed by an editorial in March's newspaper which said, "Apparently not satisfied with one big paying state handout job the Sam Neffs are trying to grab another."

The newspaper said Tuesday that Neff struck March three times and described the attack as "vicious goon-like tactics." Both March and Neff threatened to file legal charges against each other.

Political Quiz Show

WASHINGTON (UP)—Top Democrats including former President Truman and Adlai Stevenson held a political quiz show Tuesday night that sought a definition of "modern Republicanism."

The results were not designed to please the GOP National Committee.

The quiz was the feature attraction of the first annual Democratic Party Night. Democrats at dinner and after-dinner gatherings throughout the nation tuned in the recorded quiz show broadcast over CBS Radio.

Stevenson, Democratic presidential candidate in 1952 and 1956, acted as quizmaster. Truman, Mrs. Alben Barkley, Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala.) and Gov. Foster Furcolo of Massachusetts were the panelists.

Stevenson said that Rep. Noah Mason (R-Ill.) termed modern Republicanism "a form of bribery, a program to buy votes with the voters' own money."

Sparkman said "modern Republicanism is never putting off until tomorrow what should have been done in 1873."

It is "like an iceberg," Furcolo said. He explained that "it's cold, slow-moving, and very little of it shows above the surface."

"The Republican iceberg is 10 per cent visible, 90 per cent submerged and 100 per cent at sea," he added.

Stevenson said that "people in Washington are still talking about an historic occurrence which took place here not long ago. Secretary (of State John Foster) Dulles and President Eisenhower were both in town at the same time."

Then he asked, "Where did they meet?"

Furcolo was first with an answer. "It must have been either at the railroad station or the airport," he said. Stevenson replied that the airport was correct.

Truman said he admired Defense Secretary Charles E. Wilson for his recent remark that criticism about defense spending by his "rich friends in the U.S. Chamber of Commerce 'gives me a pain.'"

Trading Stamps In Boom

By ROBERT F. COLL

WASHINGTON (UP) — The trading stamp industry, a merchandising storm center for most of its 60-year history, is looking cautiously toward another boom cycle in its uneven growth.

The opposition of the nation's second largest food chain, Safeway Stores, Inc., has evaporated in a change of management. The new high command at Safeway even has granted local managers permission to trade in stamps if they want.

But the stamp traders are veterans of many mercantile battles, and any optimism is tempered by the fact that opposition always has appeared to replace the converts.

Sperry & Hutchinsen Co., New York, the biggest of the traders, estimated the industry is rolling along at a 600 million dollar-a-year clip.

Some 30 million Americans, mostly housewives, are busy collecting and pasting the colored stamps in books redeemable for merchandise.

Comb to Typewriter

In return, they can receive anything from a bed sheet or comb and brush set (1 book) to a portable typewriter (24½ books).

The stampers are the largest distributors of sterling silver in the country, and among the biggest purchasers if household appliances.

In only one area — the District of Columbia—are they barred from operating. In three states, Kansas, Wisconsin and Washington, the stampers by law must give cash instead of merchandise premiums.

But the traders face determined opposition at all levels of government from the small cities on up to Washington. Several states are considering restrictive legislation.

The biggest food chain of them all, the A&P, never has bowed to stamp trading. In addition, some merchandising associations as well as local businessman traditionally have opposed stamps.

Opponents claim stamps are an unfair sales gimmick. They say the cost of the premium usually is buried in the retail price.

Should Have Chance

The traders counter that the colored stamps are a "competitive tool" that should have its chance in the market place.

The stamp companies say they charge the store handling stamps from two to three per cent of its gross sales.

The traders claim that their charge against the store's gross sales barely cancels out their own operating costs. Where they get their profit is from pegging the stamp value of premiums at retail after having purchased them at a big markdown.

An electric blanket that costs the stamp saver 10 books, for example might be purchased through mass buying methods for the equivalent of six or seven is the profit to the trader.

Stamp saving long has been a fixture in the Midwest, but in 1948 it moved east with a rush. Since then, the five major trading firms have been expanding rapidly, particularly in the South.

Volkswagen Being Kicked Around

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

BONN, Germany (UP) — The squat, hump-backed Volkswagen or "people's car," which every German dreamed of owning in Hitler's day, is being kicked around again as a political football in Western Germany's 1957 election campaign.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer announced last week that his party will ram a bill through Parliament turning the vast, ownerless plant over to private ownership.

Shares in the 119-million dollar concern will be offered on the market at only $11.90 apiece as an investment for millions of workers. Special registration will prevent big business from grabbing control.

Adenauer's opponents brand the project as a vote-catching maneuver four months before the September election. They point out that the Parliament and probably the Supreme Court must rule on ownership.

Catches Public Fancy

But, election stunt or not, Adenauer's project has caught the public fancy about this one-time Nazi white elephant which has become the chief symbol of West Germany's post-war economic recovery.

Volkswagen was the child of Hitler's "strength through joy" labor front. Germans were told they could have a small car for the unheard of price of $300 in which they could scuttle around the autobahns.

They paid on an installment plan in reverse—pay now get later. Tens of thousands were dazzled by the idea or railroaded into anteing up advance payments, some deducted from monthly pay packages.

In all, about 336,000 Germans put money into what turned out out to be one of the largest scale confidence tricks in history. So far as is known, not a single investor ever took delivery of his car.

The money paid in advance was used in part to build the Volkswagen plant at Wolfsburg, but World War II intervened and the factory switched straight to turning out a jeep-like runabout for the Nazi army.

All told, the Nazis collected about 90-million dollars. The money supposed was banked in "Account No. 21,706" of a bank in what is now the Soviet sector of Berlin. The money has never been located. Even if it were, it would be almost valueless today because of wartime inflation and post-war currency reform.

Allied bombings reduced the plant to a shambles, but in 1947 British military authorities encouraged the Germans to get back into production.

Cover-up Swimming Suits Are Criticized

By ALINE MOSBY

HOLLYWOOD (UP) — Spring fashion magazines suggest the ladies take up those 1910-ish knit swim suits that cover the arms and end nearly at the knees, but this fad brings a wail from Esther Williams.

Hollywood's water expert is a dramatic actress these days. She's on NBC's "Video Theater" Thursday and she leaves next week for a heavy role in an Italian film. But the former all-American girl of MGM still keeps one toe in the water.

Esther, a smart business woman, is busy selling Esther Williams swimming pools around the country. She's marketing a waterproof make-up and still swims a quarter of a mile daily in her pool at home. And just show her magazines with photographs of lanky models in swim suits that look like sweaters and her eyes blaze.

The Other Direction

"The Bikini was as far as you could go to get clothes off and now the pendelum has swung too far in the other direction," said Esther.

"Just because the fashion magazines think those suits look chic on those extremely thin, bony, tall, flat-chested models! The suits this year have high backs, longer legs and sleeves, and they look dreadful.

"First, they flatten a woman's front completely. And the suits that have boned bras and stays are very uncomfortable.

"I understand some women don't swim and just want to wear a well-engineered suit. Fine, but it's getting so you need a detective to find a swim suit that is comfortable to swim in! It's the Paris influence.

"If you're an Audrey Hepburn type, with a peculiarly interesting look, those styles are becoming, but if you have a woman's body then they're ridiculous."

Esther approves of a one-piece bathing suit, with low-cut back and low-cut front that allows freedom of action while splashing in the waves. It also shows off Esther to good advantage, and she wore that style during those numerous mermaid movies she made at MGM.

That type of suit she'll also wear on her TV drama Thursday night and in her Italian movie. Although Esther has taken up dramatic roles, the writers always manage to slip in a swimming scene so she can reassure her public she still knows how to wear a swim suit.

Costello Out On Bail Today

NEW YORK (UP)—Gambler Frank Costello, in and out of jail the past few years, gets out on bail today pending an appeal of his conviction for contempt of a grand jury.

Justice Edgar J. Nathan Jr., ruled Tuesday that the gambler was entitled to bond until the appellate division rules on his conviction.

Costello, 66, was sentenced May 7 after he refused to answer questions by the grand jury concerning a recent attempt to kill the underworld lord.

Costello was slightly wounded in the head when he entered the vestibule of his apartment house on May 2. He has served 14 days of the 30 day contempt conviction.

High Fat Diets as Cause of Heart Attacks Argued by Two

NEW YORK (UP) — A scientific disagreement over whether high fat diets which most Americans eat speed hardening of arteries and lead to heart attacks has been high-lighted by Dr. Ancel B. Keys of the University of Minnesota, an outstanding "pro" man, and Dr. Irvine H. Page of the Cleveland Clinic Foundation, who is on the "con" side.

"The most important factor so far identified" which "influences" arteries - hardening is high fat eating, said Keys. This, he said, had been pretty clearly shown in population studies and in experiments with laboratory animals. High fat diets keep the cholesterol content of the blood high and that hardens arteries.

But Page took the position that none of this had been satisfactorily demonstrated. Arteries-hardening is "a multi-faceted disease," he said, "and to identify dietary fat as the only important influence is to over simplify the problem which is extremely complicated." For instance, long, lean pigs have lower blood cholesteral than short, thick-set pigs when both kinds eat the same diet.

From Population Research

Keys leaned heavily on population studies which have shown that peoples (such as Japanese and Neopolitan Italians) who have *low fat diets show lower choles*terol blood levels and suffer fewer heart attacks than peoples (such as Americans and Finns) who have high fat diets.

Page granted this "general statistical relation" in populations, but said "the relation for an individual is very poor. A man with a high blood cholesterol level cannot be said to be more subject to arteries-hardening than a man with a much lower level. "As soon as the question is scaled down to individual persons, the result becomes much less meaningful," he added.

Page objected to mass surveys of what people eat on the grounds that they're not accurate. "The amount of fat lost in cooking is unknown," he said. "One person eats his meat, fat and all. The next trims it all off carefully. The one may be on a very high fat diet, while another right in the same family has a low intake."

Keys granted that precise diet information for large numbers of people was exceedingly hard to come by, but science wasn't concerned with "small differences of one-two per cent in fat intake; we are comparing an average of over 40 per cent of calories as fat in the United States with less than 10 per cent in Japan or about 20 per cent in Italy."

Keys felt that the American diet should have no more than 20 to 25 per cent of its calories in fat. "This "would keep the cholesterol at a safe level in most people if animal fats constitutes less than half the fats." Page said that people whose calories now are 45 to 50 per cent from fats, can reduce those those calories to 25 to 30 per cent "comfortably." But "Why?" he asked. It has not been shown convincingly that that would actually reduce the blood cholesterol level, he said.

The whole question currently is one of the most discussed among doctors. The Keys-Page pro-and-con discussion took place in the technical publication Spectrum.

Don't Mix Drinking, Tranquilizing Drugs, Researchers Report

By WILEY MALONEY

SAN FRANCISCO (UP) — What happens to a person who mixes popular tranquilizing drugs with social drinking?

According to a team of University of California researchers who conducted tests on students, alcoholics and mice:

—Persons who take both tranquilizers and alcohol become more intoxicated than those who take alcohol alone.

—There can be a delayed effect. A person using a tranquilizer could take a drink and notice no change. Yet he could be "hit" some time later — while driving a car, for example. Any of the current tests for drunkeness might show the alcoholic content of his blood to be below the .15 per cent stage. But, according to the scientists, the persons might actually be "dead drunk."

Dr. Thomas M. Burbridge and Dr. Violette E. Sutherland, both pharmacologists, carried out their study at the University of California Medical Research Center, under the supervision of Dr. Alexander Simon, clinic superintendent of the California Department of Mental Hygiene and medical director of the Langley Porter Neuropsychiatric Clinic.

Report Findings

Their findings were contained in the first report of the State Alcoholic Rehabilitation Commission on Research and Treatment of Alcoholism in California.

Burbridge told United Press, "The tranquilizer apparently facilitates the uptake by the brain of alcohol. But the brain chemistry of the effect is something we plan on researching further. There is no doubt in our minds, however, of the observable effects, clinically and experimentally, of using the two (tranquilizers and alcohol) together."

"The experiments with the alcoholics and the students was most marked." Burbridge said. "We had a group of 18 alcoholics to work with. The first week we gave them alcohol alone, the next week the tranquilizer—in this case chlorpromazine — and alcohol together.

"The behavior pattern was far different in all but one case. They simply got drunk quicker and there was a change in their overt behavior."

The students who participated in the tests were given .8 of a gram of bourbon whisky per kilogram (2.2 lbs.) of body weight. Roughly translated this is about four jiggers for a man weighing 160 lbs.

Bizarre Effects

"The effect, when given with a tranquilizer or its chemical equivalent, was bizarre to say the least," Burbridge said. "They not only got gay, but many of them tried to put each other in showers and things like that. Most were quite stable with alcohol alone."

Billy Graham 'Takes On' Como, Gleason

By WILLIAM EWALD

NEW YORK (UP)—Evangelist Billy Graham, riding the crest of one of his most successful crusades, will branch out to network TV starting next week.

Graham will face off against NBC-TV's Perry Como and CBS-TV's Jackie Gleason when he launches the first of a four-week 60-minute Saturday night series on ABC-TV this June 1. The competition doesn't seem to have him worried.

William Ewald

"We'll just take the left-overs," said Graham with the hint of a smile. "Maybe one or two people will switch over. Whatever time period you have, you're going to be up against something anyway."

"Originally, we were thinking in terms of Sunday nights," continued Graham. "But that would have put us up against Steve Allen and Ed Sullivan. We figured that might be too much."

The 38-year-old Graham, currently embarked on a campaign to whip up religious interest in New York, will beam his TV show right from Madison Square Garden, home base of his crusade.

"We're not going to change anything for TV," he said. "I'm just going to preach right at the camera. You might say I have an advantage over other show people because it's not the speaker that counts, it's what the speaker is saying. And this is a message people are hungry for."

Graham, who had a syndicated TV show of his own for three years, was critical of religious programs on TV.

"I don't think the church has properly utilized TV," said Graham. "TV is the greatest medium for getting a message across, but the church is failing miserably in getting its message over. The TV programs I've seen are of inferior caliber.

Has Program Idea

"I have an idea for a program myself although I must say some of my associates are somewhat in dispute with me about it. It would be a kind of religious extravaganza.

"You'd have an orchestra and a glee club like Fred Waring's to sing the old hymns. The whole program would be done with all the flair of popular shows. You'd have a five to eight minute skit emphasizing a moral or spiritual truth.

"You'd have an interview with Roy Rogers or Vice President Nixon or what have you that would emphasize spiritual meaning. And then maybe, five minutes of preaching right at the camera. No longer than that.

"It would take a lot of money and a lot of faith and probably would run into some ecclesiastical criticism, but I'm convinced the churches should use the most modern methods. After all, the message doesn't change, only the method of communication."

Why Night Driving Is Difficult for You

By H. N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

With the summer vacation not far off, many of you undoubtedly will soon be taking to the highways.

While daytime driving can be tedious, you will probably find driving in darkness much more difficult. The major reason, of course is because it is more difficult to see in the dark.

To help ease night-time driving a little, let me give you a few tips which may give you better night vision.

First, it is probably best that I explain a little about this intricate process of seeing in near darkness. The better Vision Institute recently came out with one of the best simplified explanations I've ever seen. Let me pass part of it on to you.

In daylight, the pupil opening of the eye is small and the light falls largely upon the cones, or central nerve ends of the retina at the back of the eye. They enable us to see color in detail.

In dim light, however, the pupil is wide open. We see chiefly with millions of tiny nerve ends, calledsence of light.

rods, which are spread over the enture surface of the retina and respond to light without great detail.

Poor light primarily utilizes the rods on the outer area which perceive only rough outlines in black and different shades of gray.

These rods enable us to see in near darkness with the aid of substance called rhodopsin, or "visual purple," which is manufactured by the eye out of Vitamin A in the blood stream.

Light, however, bleaches out the visual purple, turning it to yellow and then changing it back to Vitamin A. The eye begins to make more visual purple when the light disappears.

Thus, it takes the rods 30 minutes or more to build up a full supply of this visual purple after they are exposed to a bright light.

To put it simply, we have to remain in the dark for at least half an hour before our eyes become completely adapted to the ab-

Ike Proclaims Memorial Day

WASHINGTON (UP)—President Eisenhower today proclaimed May 30 as Memorial Day. He called on the American people to observe it as "a day of prayer for permanent peace."

In his proclamation, Eisenhower urged all Americans at 11 a.m. that day to "lift up our voices in thanksgiving for the courage of our fallen, in supplication for God's aid in averting war and in dedication to unceasing work for the attainment of a peaceful world."

Be Careful of Stings From Bees, Wasps and Hornets, Doctor Says

NEW YORK (UP) — City people cavorting amidst country bees, wasps, and hornets over coming and summer week-ends should keep in mind that a sting to some people can be fatal.

Those people are the highly sensitive, allergically speaking, as they know it. Dr. Frank H. Bernard, an allergy expert, said sting-kills-man was a rare occurence, but it can and does happen.

Very sensitive people and their doctors, he said, should have an "emergency program" in readiness just in case. These people should have a "kit" with them when they go where bees, wasps and hornets dwell.

In this kit should be an ampoule of epinephrine, a vial of an injectable antihistamine, a hypodermic syringe and needle, and a tourniquet large enough to go around the thigh.

Should Give Instruction

Doctors should instruct these people now to use this equipment — if they get stung — while waiting for the country doctor to arrive.

The feared disaster is anaphylactic shock, which is the mightiest of the allergic reactions. It can have a fatal outcome in a matter of minutes. Since collapse of the circulation is a typical. Bernard warned the sting sensitive against "a long run or other excessive physical strain."

"Fortunately, such extreme sensitivity is rare," he said in bringing members of the Medical Society of the state of New York up to date on bee, hornet and wasp stings. "However, the degree of reaction to a sting may increase from one exposure to another, and since there are a considerable number of persons highly sensitive to stings, proper advice education of these individuals is also worth while."

Ground-Up Bodies

It is possible, he continued, to protect the sensitive by giving them series of injections of bee, wasp-hornet proteins in suspension, each injection very slightly stronger than the last.

Scientific investigations have shown that the ground-up whole bodies of bees are just as effective in giving human protection.

Cops, Newsmen Agree

NICOSIA (UP) — Greek Cypriote newsman John Lemonatis, 22, agreed today the police were correct when they arrested him as he sat in the press section of Nicosia Central Court Tuesday covering the murder trial of newsman Nicos Sampson. Lemonatis escaped only last week from Paphos jail where he was being held on a forgery charge.

County Coal Mines Increase Production

Coal mining in Westmoreland county inched slowly upward again last year, although production increases were not reflected in corresponding boosts in number of employes and man-days worked.

According to the 1956 annual report of the Bituminous Coal Division of the state Department of Mines and Mineral Industries, county coal production last year totaled 4,505,410 net tons, an increase of 573,405 tons over the 1955 totals.

The output was the highest recorded by county mines since 1953 and marked the second straight year that production has been increased.

Total production, however, was still only about one-third of the peaks reached during World War II, when the county chalked up its highest output figures in the past 20 years.

Total employes and man-days worked, up in 1955, declined again last year, with 193 fewer men employed in the mines and 3,147 fewer man-days worked.

In comparison with other counties in the state's bituminous area, Westmoreland ranked seventh in deep-mine production, eighth in total production and ninth in number of employes. Deep-mining operations accounted for 4,247,531 tons of the 4,505,410 total production and mine employment totaled 2,725.

Only one fatality was recorded during 1956 in the county, giving Westmoreland one of the better safety records. District 11, which includes the greater part of county mining, went through the year without a fatal accident.

Four mining operations in the county each topped 100,000 tons production — Republic Steel Corporation's Banning No. 3 mine, 623,736 tons. Wyatt-Seanor Coal Company's Loyal mine, 516,050 tons. Jamison Coal and Coke Company's Jamison No. 21 mine, 491,294 tons, and Bowman Coal Company's Bowman mine, 190,092 tons.

Accident Kills Six

SUNDBURY, Ont. (UP) — Six persons were killed Monday night in a three-car pile-up 10 miles west of here.

Haitian Troops Patrol Streets of Port Au Prince

PORT AU PRINCE (UP) — Haitian army troops patrolled the streets of Port Au Prince Tuesday night and today to enforce the curfew imposed by the military regime which took over control of Haiti Tuesday.

All persons with the exception of medical, diplomatic and military personnel and a handful of accredited correspondents were ordered to remain indoors between 9 p.m. and 4 a.m. Army patrols on foot and in vehicles made certain the orders were not violated.

The curfew was clamped on the country by the new military administration which deposed the "civilian junta" government. The army acted after the junta ordered Brig. Gen. Leon Cantave removed as chief of staff.

Cantave appeared in full control insofar as Port Au Prince was concerned. There was no immediate information here on the reaction from other sections of the republic.
